

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/11
Listening (Multiple Choice)

Question Number	Key
1	A
2	D
3	D
4	B
5	A
6	C
7	C
8	B

Question Number	Key
9	C
10	C
11	D
12	A
13	C
14	B

Question Number	Key
15	F
16	A
17	B
18	E
19	C

Question Number	Key
20	A
21	B
22	C
23	C
24	A
25	B
26	A
27	C
28	A

Question Number	Key
29	C
30	D
31	B
32	D
33	C
34	A

Question Number	Key
35	A/E
36	C/E
37	B/C

General comments

This was the first November series in which the Listening test was solely multiple-choice. Overall, performance was excellent. Most candidates attempted all questions.

The Spanish extracts heard by candidates gradually increased in terms of length and density and featured monologues, conversations and interviews. The emphasis of the questions moved from targeting the candidates' ability to pick out information contained in short factual pieces, to testing their ability to understand specific information, as well as opinions and explanations, in longer extracts.

Comments on specific questions

Questions 1–8

Performance in this exercise was generally very good, with most candidates answering the majority of the questions correctly. Where mistakes did occur, this was most usually in Question 3 where candidates had difficulty identifying la segunda calle a la derecha. In Question 7 candidates heard the phrase lleva un collar, which related to option C; a number of candidates chose option D instead.

Questions 9–14

Question 9: Almost all candidates identified 220 in the recording and therefore chose option C.

Question 10: The majority of candidates knew septiembre.

Question 11: Most candidates identified avión.

Question 12: Many candidates understood torre and therefore chose option A, but some candidates chose option B or option D.

Question 13: Nearly all candidates identified hombre a caballo and chose option C.

Question 14: Some candidates knew zanahoria and therefore selected option B, but a significant number chose either the mushroom (option A) or the pepper (option D) instead.

Questions 15–19

This was a matching exercise in which candidates heard a conversation between two friends, Manuela and Juan, about holidays. Most candidates performed very well in this exercise.

Question 15: This was the question that was answered best in this exercise, with many candidates understanding the phrase hace demasiado frío and linking it with option F (A Manuela no le gusta el clima).

Question 16: Most candidates understood tres hijos que son mayores que yo and therefore chose option A (Manuela es más joven que sus primos). The candidates who answered incorrectly most often chose option D (Manuela podría hacer nuevos amigos).

Question 17: This was the question that was answered least well in this exercise. Many candidates did not understand the phrase con niños tengo poca paciencia, which linked with option B (A Manuela no le gusta ese tipo de trabajo). Quite a few candidates chose option A (Manuela es más joven que sus primos).

Question 18: This question was generally answered very well. Most candidates understood the phrase estaría en el autobús dos horas todos los días and therefore chose option E.

Question 19: This question was generally tackled well, with many candidates correctly choosing option C (Manuela disfrutará estando en contacto con la naturaleza) because they understood Manuela's phrase me entusiasma la idea de estar al sol entre campos y árboles in the dialogue.

Questions 20–28

In this exercise, candidates heard an interview in two parts with Rafael, who spoke about a business that he had set up. The exercise represented a step up in the incline of difficulty of the test.

Question 20: Most candidates understood tengo poco dinero para comprarla in the recording and linked it with no tiene dinero para ropa (option A).

Question 21: The better candidates understood un amigo que siempre lleva ropa bonita and chose option B (tiene ropa elegante). Of those who did not answer correctly, approximately half chose option A and half chose option C.

Question 22: Almost all candidates understood costaba un cuarto del precio que tenía en las tiendas del centro and therefore chose option C.

Question 23: Stronger candidates identified the key phrase necesitaba dinero para empezar y él me lo podía dar and selected option C (dinero para la empresa). Weaker candidates chose option B because they heard the word ordenador.

Question 24: This question was generally answered well. Good candidates found the right answer (option A), having understood the phrase principalmente que no había pensado el tiempo que este proyecto me iba a llevar. Of those who did not answer correctly, approximately half chose option B and half chose option C.

Question 25: Many candidates understood the phrase la idea era buena pero no tan sencilla como yo creía and linked it with the adjective buena (option B), but many were tempted by sencilla (option A). No candidates chose perfecta (option C).

Question 26: Overall, this question was answered well. Most candidates chose primavera (option A) because they correctly identified the season that was mentioned in the phrase en una feria que hay en mi colegio en primavera. Some opted for otoño (option B) because they misunderstood what was said about the fair.

Question 27: This question was answered quite poorly. Many candidates chose al lado de los libros (option A), which was incorrect. Stronger candidates identified the word pasteles in the recording and were able to link it with junto a donde se vendía comida (option C).

Question 28: Most candidates worked out that ganó mucho (option A) was the correct answer, having listened carefully to the phrases vino mucha gente y por suerte vendí todo and ¡me quedé contento con el dinero que había ganado!. Of those who did not answer correctly, approximately half chose option B and half chose option C.

Questions 29–34

In this exercise, candidates heard an interview with Dr Santana, who spoke about her work in war zones.

Question 29: Nearly all candidates understood the statement lo que me despertó el deseo fue una serie de televisión sobre la vida de los médicos and linked it with cuando vio unos programas de televisión (option C). The most frequently chosen wrong answer was option B (cuando estudió biología en el colegio) because candidates overlooked Dr Santana's clarification (me interesó, sí, pero también otras asignaturas).

Question 30: This question was not answered particularly well, with fewer than half of candidates answering correctly. The most frequently chosen wrong answer was option B (estaba la mayor parte del tiempo limpiando las camas) because candidates heard the phrase me pasaba el día recorriendo las camas and latched on to the mention of camas. The correct answer was option D (hablaba cuando podía con los pacientes).

Question 31: Some candidates were able to identify the key phrase in the recording (eso me pareció interesante) and linked it with le interesó el trabajo que describían (option B), but a significant number chose either option A or option D.

Question 32: This question was not answered well. Stronger candidates listened carefully to yo los atendía en el orden en el que llegaban and worked out that a la gente que había llegado primero (option D) was the right answer. Many selected option B (a las madres con los bebés), which was a sensible (albeit incorrect) guess given that Dr Santana had talked about mujeres que iban a tener un bebé.

Question 33: This was a straightforward question, but many candidates did not score the mark here. Stronger candidates understood allí fue donde conocí a mi marido and linked it with conoció a su futuro marido (option C), but many chose option D (solía tener un resfriado terrible) because they heard the phrase un día terrible.

Question 34: Most candidates understood los niños necesitaban vivir en un lugar tranquilo and connected it with sus hijos vivirían mejor (option A). Of the incorrect answers, option B (su marido ya estaba allí) was the most frequently chosen, perhaps because of a misunderstanding of the phrase mi marido volvió después.

Questions 35–37

Candidates heard an interview with Javier, who spoke about a project that he had organised to help young people. For each question in this exercise, candidates had to identify two correct statements from a choice of five.

Question 35: A good number of candidates understood como en muchas otras ciudades modernas, había un grupo de chicos jóvenes que estaban causando bastantes problemas and therefore chose option A (el problema del que habla Javier es común en ciudades modernas). Many candidates chose option D (Javier pensaba que había que quejarse por la conducta de los jóvenes) because they misheard quejándose no se conseguía nada; careful listening to this phrase would have enabled candidates to eliminate option D as a true statement. A number of candidates chose option B (los jóvenes venían de otros lados a jugar al barrio de Javier), but there was no mention on the recording of young people from other areas causing problems in Javier's district.

Question 36: Better candidates were able to understand con sus teléfonos móviles buscaron la letra de las canciones en Internet and were able to eliminate option A (los chicos usaban los móviles para escuchar canciones de moda). Most eliminated option B (el que mejor cantaba era Javier) because they understood the phrase algunos cantaban bien, mejor que yo. One of the correct answers was option C (cambió el ambiente cuando estaban todos cantando) which linked with the phrase se creó un ambiente agradable y sobre todo muy tranquilo in the recording. The other correct answer was option E (los chicos decían que tenían poco para divertirse) which linked with the phrase me contaron que estaban siempre aburridos porque no tenían nada que hacer in the recording.

Question 37: This question was the least well answered in this exercise. A good number of candidates understood algunos pusieron mala cara, pero otros aceptaron y juntaron lo que estaba tirado and chose option B (a varios jóvenes les gustó una idea que propuso Javier). However, only half were able to understand that the mayor salió a felicitarnos por lo bien que cantábamos y lo limpia que estaba la zona, which led them to option C (el alcalde felicitó a Javier y a los chicos por las dos cosas que hacían). Many candidates chose option E (después de la fiesta, los chicos van a volver a limpiar las calles), but the recording stated that ya no necesitamos recoger basura porque las calles están limpias.

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/12
Listening (Multiple Choice)

Question Number	Key
1	D
2	C
3	B
4	A
5	C
6	D
7	A
8	B

Question Number	Key
9	B
10	A
11	C
12	A
13	D
14	C

Question Number	Key
15	C
16	B
17	A
18	F
19	E

Question Number	Key
20	B
21	A
22	A
23	C
24	B
25	C
26	A
27	A
28	B

Question Number	Key
29	B
30	D
31	C
32	C
33	D
34	A

Question Number	Key
35	C/D
36	A/B
37	C/E

General comments

This was the first November series in which the Listening test was solely multiple-choice. Overall, performance was satisfactory. Most candidates attempted all questions.

The Spanish extracts heard by candidates gradually increased in terms of length and density and featured monologues, conversations and interviews. The emphasis of the questions moved from targeting the candidates' ability to pick out information contained in short factual pieces, to testing their ability to understand specific information, as well as opinions and explanations, in longer extracts.

Comments on specific questions

Questions 1–8

Performance in this exercise was generally very good, with most candidates answering the majority of the questions correctly. Nearly all candidates answered Questions 2, 5, 6 and 8 correctly. Where mistakes did occur, this was most usually in Question 4 where candidates had difficulty identifying paraguas; many chose option B instead (guantes). Many candidates were unfamiliar with the word cuchillo in Question 7; most chose option C (cuchara), and a number were tempted by option B (tenedor).

Questions 9–14

Question 9: Almost all candidates identified escultura in the recording and therefore chose option B.

Question 10: The majority of candidates knew parque and selected option A.

Question 11: Nearly all candidates understood montando en bicicleta and linked it with option C.

Question 12: Stronger candidates correctly chose option A (clases de vela). The most frequent wrong answer was option D (buceo).

Question 13: Almost all candidates recognised crema para el sol and connected it with option D.

Question 14: Most candidates understood cine al aire libre and therefore chose option C.

Questions 15–19

This was a matching exercise in which candidates heard a conversation between two friends, Luisa and Juan, about Luisa's weekend. Many candidates performed well in this exercise.

Question 15: This question was generally tackled well, with many candidates correctly choosing option C (estaba en el centro) because they understood the phrase hotel céntrico in the recording. Some candidates chose responses that were logical (albeit incorrect), such as option D or option F, which demonstrated good exam technique even though the mark was not scored.

Question 16: This question was not answered particularly well, with many candidates not understanding the phrase costaba poco in the recording. The most commonly chosen wrong answer was option A (cerca había un castillo).

Question 17: This question was generally tackled very well, with many candidates correctly choosing option A (cerca había un castillo), showing that they had listened carefully to the phrase se veía un castillo en una isla cercana.

Question 18: This was the question that was answered least well in this exercise. Many candidates overlooked the phrase había muchos clientes, which linked with option F (estaba lleno de gente). Quite a few candidates chose option D (tenía buenas ofertas para familias), which was plausible but wrong.

Question 19: This was the question that was answered best in this exercise, with most candidates understanding the phrase con música flamenca and linking it with option E (había música).

Questions 20–28

In this exercise, candidates heard an interview in two parts with Olivia and Javier, who spoke about their first day at school. The exercise represented a step up in the incline of difficulty of the test.

Question 20: Almost all candidates understood una falda rosa and selected option B.

Question 21: Nearly all candidates understood mi madre trabajaba; por eso mi abuela me llevó a la escuela and therefore chose option A (con su abuela). Some candidates chose option B (con su madre) because they heard madre in the recording.

Question 22: This question was also very well understood. Most candidates noticed the key phrase estaba tan emocionada and therefore selected option A (emocionante).

Question 23: Many chose the correct option C (alumnos mayores) because they understood the phrase hicimos un recorrido de la escuela con unos alumnos mayores, but a significant number selected option A (la directora) because they heard para saber dónde estaban la oficina de la directora y la sala de profesores.

Question 24: This question was not answered particularly well. Some candidates did link the phrase la maestra nos enseñó canciones nuevas with option B (a cantar canciones nuevas), but many candidates, having heard the phrase la niña a mi lado pintó un perro, were tempted by option C (a pintar un perro).

Question 25: This question was also answered quite poorly. Some candidates correctly chose option C (no tenía amigos escolares) because they understood the phrase en la escuela no conocía a nadie. Many selected option B (quería ir a la ciudad) because they heard the phrase llegar a esta ciudad.

Question 26: This was the question that was answered least well in this exercise. Many candidates chose option C (ir a otra ciudad), which was incorrect. The correct answer was option A (viajar mucho), which linked with the phrases tuve que ir a una escuela al otro lado de la ciudad and fui en autobús y tardé media hora en llegar allí.

Question 27: This question was answered quite well. Many candidates chose option A (amable), which linked with the description of the teacher that Olivia gave (era alta, simpática y cariñosa). The most commonly chosen wrong answer was option B (hermosa).

Question 28: Fewer than half of candidates answered this question correctly. Javier said comí bocadillos que había traído de casa, so the correct answer was option B (comió una merienda). Nearly half chose option C instead (charló con otros niños) because they misunderstood me quedé callado sin hablar con mis compañeros.

Questions 29–34

In this exercise, candidates heard an interview with Rafaela, a Spanish singer.

Question 29: Stronger candidates understood the phrase yo empecé en la música cuando tenía siete años and therefore chose option B (7 años). Option A (4 años) and option C (9 años) were the most commonly chosen incorrect answers.

Question 30: This question was the one that was answered least well in this exercise. Option D (su madre) was the correct answer. Stronger candidates were able to identify the answer from the phrases mi madre era ama de casa, pero cantaba canciones españolas en fiestas locales and además, ella fue mi primera profesora de canto. Option B (su abuela) was the most commonly chosen wrong answer, perhaps because candidates heard the word abuela in the phrase mi abuela cantaba con el coro de la iglesia.

Question 31: Many candidates were able to identify the key phrases in the recording (un día decidí aprender a tocar la guitarra and yo misma me enseñé y todavía la toco) and therefore chose option C (la guitarra), but a significant number chose option B (el piano) because they heard the phrase asistía a clases de piano que me gustaban, but they did not pay attention to the other element of what Rafaela said (pero ahora no tengo tiempo).

Question 32: This question was answered very well. Most candidates chose option C (el público sabía sus canciones) because they understood the phrase el momento que más me marcó fue cuando escuché al público cantar mis canciones. A small number of candidates selected option D (fue su único concierto en Latinoamérica).

Question 33: This was the question that was answered best in this exercise. Most candidates understood the phrase lo que me ayuda a relajarme es ir de paseo con mi perro and therefore selected option D (pasea con su perro). A few chose option B (ve deportes por televisión) because they heard Rafaela say ver series de televisión; the word series eliminated option B from being a correct response.

Question 34: The correct answer was option A (tener un papel en una película). Stronger candidates understood the phrase mi ambición es hacerme actriz y ser estrella en una gran película americana. There was a range of answers here, but option D (aprender a escribir música) was the most commonly chosen incorrect answer, as candidates did not pay close enough attention to the phrase voy a seguir viajando, conociendo a otros cantantes y escribiendo música.

Questions 35–37

Candidates heard an interview with Roberto, who spoke about his village, Santa Juana. For each question in this exercise, candidates had to identify two correct statements from a choice of five.

Question 35: A good number of candidates understood la gente es amable and therefore chose option C (la gente de Santa Juana siempre es agradable). Many candidates chose option B (Santa Juana tiene poca historia); this suggested that they either did not understand the phrase con muchísima in the sentence es un pueblo tranquilo con viejos edificios de piedra y con muchísima historia, or that they did not understand the word poca in option B. The majority of candidates understood la variedad de comida que se puede comer es enorme y bien conocida en la región por sus sabores deliciosos and therefore chose option D (Santa Juana es famosa por su comida).

Question 36: Many candidates encountered difficulty here. Stronger candidates understood puedes tener una experiencia total de la comida de la región si asistes a una clase de cocina and chose option A (en las clases se aprende todo sobre la cocina local). They also found the other correct option B (hay que ir muy temprano al mercado) because they understood the phrase la clase empieza yendo temprano al mercado para comprar todos los ingredientes frescos. Many candidates chose option C (el pimiento chile le da a la comida un color especial) because they confused sabor and color. The candidates who selected option D (se prepara la comida con otras personas) did not understand the phrase cada uno prepara su propio plato which would have allowed them to rule out this option.

Question 37: This question was generally answered well, but despite the simple vocabulary in the phrase hay muchos parques donde puedes sacar fotos y, si hace calor, hay muchos árboles que dan sombra, a number of candidates chose option A (A Santa Juana le faltan espacios verdes), which was incorrect. Likewise, option B (puedes recorrer el centro de Santa Juana en coche) was chosen by a number of candidates, but this was incorrect because the recording said en el centro, en muchas calles no se permite el tráfico. Option C (los edificios del centro son de muchos colores) was one of the correct answers that candidates struggled to find in this exercise despite the statement in the recording being straightforward (casas de todos los colores). A good number of candidates understood también hay una calle donde todas las tiendas solo venden chocolate and therefore selected the correct option E (hay una calle dedicada a un solo producto).

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/13
Listening (Multiple Choice)

Question Number	Key
1	C
2	B
3	D
4	A
5	C
6	A
7	A
8	B

Question Number	Key
9	A
10	D
11	B
12	C
13	B
14	A

Question Number	Key
15	C
16	F
17	D
18	B
19	E

Question Number	Key
20	A
21	B
22	C
23	B
24	A
25	C
26	A
27	C
28	B

Question Number	Key
29	D
30	D
31	C
32	A
33	B
34	C

Question Number	Key
35	B/E
36	A/C
37	B/D

General comments

This was the first November series in which the Listening test was solely multiple-choice. Overall, performance was satisfactory. Most candidates attempted all questions.

The Spanish extracts heard by candidates gradually increased in terms of length and density and featured monologues, conversations and interviews. The emphasis of the questions moved from targeting the candidates' ability to pick out information contained in short factual pieces, to testing their ability to understand specific information, as well as opinions and explanations, in longer extracts.

Comments on specific questions

Questions 1–8

Performance in this exercise was generally very good, with most candidates answering the majority of the questions correctly. Where mistakes did occur, this was most usually in Question 8 where many candidates had difficulty identifying una guía del lugar (option B). Approximately a quarter of candidates chose option A, and a quarter chose option C.

Questions 9–14

Question 9: Almost all candidates identified el castillo in the recording and therefore chose option A.

Question 10: This was the question that was answered best in this exercise. The majority of candidates knew domingo and chose option D.

Question 11: Some candidates encountered difficulty here. Most chose option B (10 €), which was correct, but some chose option C (12 €) instead.

Question 12: The stronger candidates understood the phrase tartas de cereza and therefore selected option C, but a significant number chose option B (bocadillo).

Question 13: Most candidates understood perros and therefore selected option B.

Question 14: Nearly all candidates recognised crema solar and therefore chose option A.

Questions 15–19

This was a matching exercise in which candidates heard a conversation between two friends, Claudia and Alberto, about sports. Many candidates had difficulty with this exercise.

Question 15: This was the question that was answered least well in this exercise. Many candidates did not understand the phrase tenemos una cancha de baloncesto mejor y más moderna, which linked with option C (tienen un lugar nuevo para entrenar). Quite a number of candidates chose option A (el polideportivo está muy lejos); this was the option that did not link with any of the questions in this exercise.

Question 16: About two thirds of candidates understood el entrenador siempre está de mal humor and therefore chose option F (el entrenador se enfada con frecuencia). Of the remaining candidates, a number chose option B (se debe entrenar muchas horas por semana).

Question 17: This was one of the questions that was answered best in this exercise, with many candidates understanding the phrase organizan un torneo dentro de un mes and linking it with option D (hay un torneo en un mes).

Question 18: This question was not answered particularly well, with many candidates not understanding the phrase necesitas practicar casi todos los días para poder competir. There was no clear pattern of mistakes, but many chose option C (tienen un lugar nuevo para entrenar). The correct answer was option B (se debe entrenar muchas horas por semana).

Question 19: This question was generally tackled very well, with many candidates correctly understanding tendría que hacerme miembro de otro club y cuesta mucho dinero and therefore choosing option E (el club es caro).

Questions 20–28

In this exercise, candidates heard an interview in two parts with Andrea, who spoke about her experience of flying solo from Spain to North Africa. The exercise represented a step up in the incline of difficulty of the test.

Question 20: Some candidates understood the phrase tan solo tenía dieciocho años and therefore chose option A (era una adolescente). A number of candidates chose either option B or option C instead.

Question 21: This question was very well understood. Most candidates identified the key phrase mis padres pensaban que sería médica porque siempre jugaba a eso con mis hermanos and therefore selected option B (estudiaría medicina). The most commonly chosen wrong answer was A (querría ser piloto), which was a common-sense answer (albeit incorrect) given the context of the interview and also the fact that they heard the word piloto in reference to Andrea's father.

Question 22: This question was not answered well. Some candidates did find the right answer, having understood the phrase mi primer vuelo fue el día de mi cumpleaños and therefore selected option C (voló por primera vez). A number of candidates chose either option A or option B instead.

Question 23: Only half of candidates answered this question correctly. The candidates that understood mi madre estaba muy ansiosa linked it to option B (estaba muy preocupada). Many chose option C (se sentía orgullosa).

Question 24: Almost all candidates understood lo bueno era que mi padre se había comprado un avión and therefore chose A (su padre tenía su propio avión), but many were tempted by option B (su padre viajaba mucho).

Question 25: This question was answered quite poorly. Many candidates chose option A (quería comprar ropa en Marruecos) because they heard un cliente de mi padre necesitaba llevar ropa a Marruecos, but better candidates were able to understand mi padre estaba enfermo and linked it to option C (su padre se sentía mal).

Question 26: About half of candidates chose option A (entender los mapas de vuelo), which was correct, as they had understood the phrase lo más duro fue acordarme de cómo leer los mapas para volar. Option B (hacer un viaje tan rápido) was chosen by nearly half of candidates, perhaps because they heard the phrase tuve que aprender muy rápido.

Question 27: This was one of the questions that was answered least well in this exercise. Many selected option A (por las instrucciones de su padre) because they heard ya había hecho este viaje antes con mi padre así que me sentía segura. Those who listened more carefully chose option C (porque hizo buen tiempo) because they identified the key phrase todo salió bien gracias a que no hubo tormentas.

Question 28: This question was answered quite well, with a number of candidates understanding the phrase eso me permitió comenzar la carrera profesional que siempre quise and therefore choosing option B (consiguió la profesión que quería). Many selected option C (compró una casa en el norte de España) because they heard había logrado volar desde el norte de España, but Andrea didn't say anything about buying a house.

Questions 29–34

In this exercise candidates heard an interview with Marisa, who spoke about a recycling project that she set up.

Question 29: A good number all candidates understood the phrase pensé que podría usar las botellas para hacer algo nuevo y útil con los niños and therefore chose option D (reusar botellas de plástico), but there was a range of answers given here; candidates were tempted by all three of the incorrect options.

Question 30: This question was the one that was answered least well in this exercise. Fewer than half of candidates were able to identify the correct answer D (recibir ayuda de los padres) from the statement los padres apoyaron la idea, y eso fue lo más esencial. Many selected option A (usar la imaginación) because they heard Marisa say that the children tienen una gran imaginación.

Question 31: This question was the one that was answered best in this exercise. Many candidates selected option C (otros colegios se pusieron en contacto con Marisa) because they understood varios colegios se contactaron conmigo porque necesitaban estimular a sus alumnos para que reciclaran más.

Question 32: This question was not answered particularly well. Those who listened carefully identified the key phrase muchas tiendas nos dan todo tipo de plásticos que podemos reusar and therefore selected option A (regalando toda la basura de plástico). Many chose option B (dando bolsas de plástico a sus clientes) instead, but the recording said muchas tiendas nos dan todo tipo de plásticos...menos las bolsas porque ya no las utilizan; others chose option C (vendiendo solamente cosas de algodón) because they misheard venden a sus clientes unas bolsas hechas de algodón.

Question 33: This question was answered well. Many candidates were able to link los niños están aprendiendo biología, geografía, matemáticas de una forma divertida with option B (los niños disfrutaban aprendiendo).

Question 34: Some candidates struggled here. The stronger candidates chose option C (la participación del ayuntamiento) because they understood esta vez trabajaré con la ayuda del ayuntamiento. Option A (hacer un barco de madera) was the most commonly chosen wrong answer, perhaps because they heard Marisa say that la zona de juegos tiene un barco pirata de madera and that she wanted to construct a new barco pirata using recycled plastic.

Questions 35–37

Candidates heard an interview with Miguel Sánchez, the champion of a cooking contest for young people. For each question in this exercise, candidates had to identify two correct statements from a choice of five.

Question 35: Stronger candidates understood the phrase para trabajar en la cocina necesitas estar muy seguro de ti mismo and therefore chose option B (para Miguel la seguridad en sí mismo es importante). The other correct answer was option E (Miguel lleva trabajando tres años en un restaurante) which linked with the statement hace tres años comencé de camarero en un restaurante. Although the statement was relatively straightforward, many candidates struggled with it. The most commonly chosen wrong answers were option C (Miguel ayudaba a su abuela a preparar la comida) and option D (Miguel se quemaba cocinando cuando era pequeño). Candidates did not listen carefully to, or did not understand, Miguel's phrase that related to his grandma: tenía prohibido ayudarla por si me quemaba cocinando. This statement allowed candidates to eliminate both option C and option D.

Question 36: Some candidates understood the phrase lo que más disfruto, que es la cocina moderna en el restaurante and therefore chose option A (Miguel prefiere cocinar recetas más modernas). Option C (Miguel temía desilusionar a su abuela si perdía) was one of the answers that candidates struggled to find in this exercise. The recording said estaba muy ansioso porque no quería decepcionarla. More than half of candidates chose option D (ahora Miguel debe acabar el curso en el instituto), but Miguel said ahora que he terminado mis estudios en el instituto..., which eliminated this option. Option E (Miguel se siente contento con todas sus recetas) was also chosen by many candidates, who misheard estoy deseando aprender más y mejorar recetas de las que aún no estoy totalmente satisfecho.

Question 37: This question was the one that was answered best in this exercise. A good number of candidates understood the phrase deseo tener conocimientos de la cocina de diferentes culturas and therefore chose option B (Miguel está interesado en la cocina de otros países). Many candidates encountered difficulty with finding the second correct answer. They needed to understand the phrase pienso que la gente de mi edad no come tan sano como debería in order to work out that option D (a Miguel le preocupa la salud de los jóvenes) was correct; fewer than half of candidates managed this. The most commonly chosen wrong answer was option C (para Miguel la comida sana puede ser aburrida), but Miguel said the opposite: quiero mostrar que la comida sana no tiene por qué ser aburrida. Option E (Miguel quiere tener muchos amigos en las redes sociales) was also a commonly chosen incorrect answer because candidates misheard the phrase mi interés no está en tener muchos amigos en Internet.

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/21
Reading

Key messages

To maximise their chances of success on this paper, candidates should:

- aim to write short, accurate answers – sometimes a single word is appropriate – and not rely on lifting from the text without modification
- make sure to eliminate any extra material which could invalidate an otherwise-correct answer
- read the questions carefully and make sure that their answers are directly linked to the precise questions asked
- bear in mind that in Questions 4 and 6, answers in the first person are unlikely to be correct
- aim to attempt every question in the paper, as leaving questions blank offers no chance of scoring a mark
- remember that in Questions 4 and 6, the questions follow the order of the text
- plan their time carefully so that they have enough time to deal with the longer, more demanding exercises, and allow time at the end to check their answers (or check them as they work through the paper)
- read the rubrics carefully and write clearly and legibly in the spaces provided. If they change their mind about an answer, they should ensure their final response is clear and obvious.

General comments

Most candidates demonstrated a very good understanding of the texts and attempted all the questions.

In the exercises which required short written answers, the best responses were those which were concise and focused on the precise piece of information required to answer the question. Weaker responses included whole sentences which were copied from the text, and this often resulted in inappropriate information being included in the answer.

Candidates need to be unambiguous in their answers and be able to correctly manipulate verbs, personal pronouns and possessive adjectives.

Candidates who have a wide range of vocabulary and are able to recognise synonyms will be equipped to tackle the exercises in this paper, in particular Question 5.

Candidates who can correctly recognise interrogatives usually provide more appropriate answers.

Comments on specific questions

Question 1

In this question candidates needed to match short sentences in Spanish with the correct picture. All pictures and sentences were related to free time activities. Candidates need to remember that one of the pictures is surplus to requirements. In general, candidates attempted all questions, and most gained full marks. Almost all candidates knew jardinería and cuidar las plantas and could link these vocabulary items with option B, and nearly all candidates understood the word batería and correctly chose option E. Almost all candidates correctly linked tele with option A, and nearly all knew recognised libros and chose option F. The majority of candidates realised that pintar linked with option C.

Question 2

In this question candidates read five sentences in Spanish and needed to match each sentence with the correct option from eight signs/notices found in a supermarket. In general, candidates attempted all the questions, and many gained full marks. Most candidates were able to link bebidas with option A (refrescos y agua). Almost all candidates were able to link los clientes no pueden entrar with option D (solo empleados); those who didn't get this question right often selected option H (horario). The majority of candidates matched lechuga and ensalada with option E (sección de frutas y verduras). Some candidates struggled to link hay información sobre cuándo abre el supermercado with option H (horario); option D (solo empleados) and option E (sección de frutas y verduras) were common incorrect answers. Nearly all candidates were able to link pollo y cordero with option C (carnicería).

Question 3

Candidates read a text about school and answered a set of seven multiple-choice questions, each of which had three options. In most cases, candidates attempted all the questions, and many gained full marks.

Question 3(a): This question was the one that was answered best in this exercise. Almost all candidates selected the correct answer, option B.

Question 3(b): Most candidates selected the correct answer, option A (a pie), but a few were tempted by en coche in the text and chose option B instead.

Question 3(c): Candidates needed to link la clase nunca es aburrida in the text with the correct answer, option C (interesante).

Question 3(d): Almost all candidates found the correct answer, option B.

Question 3(e): Candidates needed to read the text carefully in order to select the correct answer, option A.

Question 3(f): Most candidates were able to link option B (va a casa) with the phrase vuelvo a casa in the text. The reference to her brother playing basketball distracted some candidates, who incorrectly chose option C.

Question 3(g): Candidates needed to read the question and text closely in order to select the right answer, option C (cinco). A few candidates chose option A (dos) instead, but this referred to the duration rather than the time of departure.

Question 4

In Question 4 candidates are required to answer questions on a longer text, which in this case was an email from Marina about the work experience that she had done recently. Candidates were required to write short responses in Spanish. The text was written in the first person; candidates needed to take care to change the first person to the third person when required in order to make their answers unambiguous. Many of the answers could be answered with a precise lift from the text, but responses needed to be succinct and unambiguous in order to demonstrate sufficient comprehension.

Question 4(a): Most candidates were able to recognise that the question was asking for a feeling and responded succinctly with contenta. If candidates included a verb in their answer, then they needed to change it from the first person to the third person.

Question 4(b): Most candidates provided a precise lift (la moda) directly from the text, but some lifted too much and invalidated their answer.

Question 4(c): Nearly all candidates understood the interrogative dónde and extracted the answer banco from the text. Candidates were able to lift the whole phrase if they wished to (tuvieron que hacerlas en el banco), and some made use of the verb given in the question (las hicieron en un banco).

Question 4(d): This was a question that required two answers. Only the strongest candidates understood that the question was asking for two different items of clothing. For one answer, candidates could just write vestidos. Many included a verb (either fabrica or diseña y fabrica), which was acceptable. For the other answer, candidates could just write trajes. Many lifted the phrase crea trajes para hombres, which was accepted. Weaker candidates tended to write diseña vestidos for the first answer, and fabrica vestidos for the second answer. This resulted in a total of one mark being awarded for Question 4(d).

Question 4(e): Most candidates understood that the response needed to contain the word inútil, but a verb was needed in order to make the answer clear. Candidates therefore needed to include era or es, or manipulate the verb encontrar from the first to the third person (encuentra). Weaker candidates tended to leave the verb in the first person (encuentro), which meant that the mark could not be awarded.

Question 4(f): Most candidates wrote diseñar (algo), which was correct, but weaker candidates copied too much from the text and invalidated their response.

Question 4(g): Stronger candidates were able to lift ver cómo toman decisiones from the text and perform a successful manipulation of the verb poder from the first to the third person, although this was not required in order for the mark to be awarded. Answers starting with puedes were also accepted. Weaker candidates tended to either leave the verb in the first person (pude) or were unable to conjugate it correctly and unambiguously.

Question 4(h): On the whole, candidates were successful here, lifting (habrá) más oportunidades from the text. The verb was not essential for the mark to be awarded.

Question 4(i): Weaker candidates struggled with the object pronoun here. Candidates needed to change the object pronoun me to the third person. The answers la/le/se echarán de menos were accepted, as well as echarán de menos a Marina, but many omitted an object pronoun or wrote los padres se echarán de menos, with no reference to Marina, implying that the parents would miss each other. In such cases the mark could therefore not be awarded.

Question 4(j): Most candidates understood the interrogative cuándo and were able to extract pronto from the text. Weaker candidates tended to include te aconsejo in their answer, or did not manipulate it correctly.

Question 4(k): This question was answered correctly by the majority of candidates, who were able to lift nunca ganas un sueldo from the text. There was also some adept paraphrasing by stronger candidates here.

Question 5

Candidates were required to match a series of descriptions with the requirements and interests of five different people looking for appropriate holiday accommodation. There were therefore three descriptions that were surplus to requirements. Candidates needed to process a range of information and look for the best-fit accommodation for each person. Candidates with a wide range of vocabulary and knowledge of synonyms tended to perform better in this exercise than those whose range of vocabulary and knowledge of synonyms was less well developed. In general, there was a very good response to this question, but candidates should be reminded to read the rubric carefully as several candidates wrote the name of the accommodation rather than the number of the description. Candidates need to make sure that they write the numbers clearly in the space provided and ensure there is no ambiguity in their answers.

Question 5(a): Most candidates were able to link en la costa with a la orilla del mar, and instalaciones estupendas with las mejores instalaciones, in order to find the correct answer (option 2). Weaker candidates were tempted by the reference to mar in options 6 and 8, but stronger candidates made sure to read the rest of the criteria carefully, which enabled them to rule out these two options.

Question 5(b): The majority of candidates could link económicas with barato, and actividades with excursiones, in order to select the correct answer (option 7). Candidates needed to understand the word tampoco in order to rule out option 8. Some candidates chose option 3, but careful reading of Luz's preferences would have enabled candidates to rule out this option.

Question 5(c): Candidates needed to distinguish between the imperfect tense and the present tense in order to understand what Javier used to prefer and what he is looking for now. Candidates could link tranquilas, sin ruido with silencioso, and descansar with desconectar. The reference to the piscina also led most candidates to select the correct answer (option 5). Some weaker candidates chose option 1 because of the reference to the nightlife and the swimming pool.

Question 5(d): Candidates needed to know the word tienda and associate it with camping. Candidates also needed to link senderismo with paseos, and read the texts carefully in order to fully understand the requirements of the location. The correct answer was option 8.

Question 5(e): This was the question that was answered best in this exercise, with most candidates selecting the correct answer, option 3. Candidates were able to link comida with restaurants, and also make the connection between the location and the attractions.

Question 6

Candidates had to answer questions on a longer, more demanding text about a festival. Candidates were required to write short answers in Spanish. Responses need to be precise and unambiguous. Verbs, personal pronouns and possessive adjectives need to be correctly manipulated.

Question 6(a): Most candidates understood the interrogative cuándo and were able to give an appropriate answer. Stronger candidates understood that empezar and comenzar were synonymous and were able to give an appropriate answer (e.g. hace 12 años). A common incorrect answer was 2016.

Question 6(b): Most candidates were able to locate the correct answer in the text, but the object pronoun needed to be changed from the first person to the third person. The answers se sorprende and le sorprende were accepted. Responses needed to be given in the present tense. The answers está sorprendido, sorprendido and sorpresa were accepted, but the verb sorprender caused difficulties for some weaker candidates.

Question 6(c): Candidates could not lift the response directly from the text; they needed to manipulate the verb ayudamos. Candidates could either put the verb into the infinitive, or the third person singular or plural: ayudar/ayudan/ayuda a los grupos de música de la región were acceptable responses, although many omitted the phrase de la región which was essential in order for the mark to be awarded.

Question 6(d): This was a question that required two answers. Most candidates located the correct part of the text for both responses. For one answer, almost all candidates identified the correct response entusiastas de la música. For the other answer, candidates could answer succinctly with adolescentes. Weaker candidates usually selected mayores and niños as their two answers, both of which were mentioned in the text.

Question 6(e): This was another question that required two answers, and was the question that was answered best in this exercise. Nearly all candidates gained both marks available here. For one answer, candidates could lift los otros festivals aún no han empezado directly from the text. For the other answer, candidates needed to omit the phrase en mi opinión, or change it to en su opinión, in order to provide an acceptable answer (e.g. el primer festival del año es el más emocionante).

Question 6(f): This question attracted a wide variety of responses from candidates. Their answers needed to imply that there was less rain or better weather (i.e. menos lluvia or mejor tiempo). A number of candidates suggested that there was no rain at all, which was incorrect.

Question 6(g): Stronger candidates were able to manipulate the verb continuar from the first person to the third person, and gave appropriate answers such as continúa trabajando.

Question 6(h): Most candidates located the correct answer in the text, but only the very strongest could manipulate the verb appropriately and include all the necessary information. The answers es muy popular entre los grupos importantes and son muy populares entre los grupos importantes were accepted; the phrase los grupos importantes needed to be included in order for the mark to be awarded.

Question 6(i): Only the strongest candidates were able to answer this question correctly, providing appropriate answers such as hay un ambiente feliz or tiene un ambiente feliz. Many candidates lifted too much from the text and included trabajamos mucho in their response, which invalidated the answer. Even if candidates manipulated the verb to trabajan, the response was still incorrect because the reason that lots of people wanted to go to the festival was for the atmosphere, not because they had worked hard.

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/22
Reading

Key messages

To maximise their chances of success on this paper, candidates should:

- aim to write short, accurate answers – sometimes a single word is appropriate – and not rely on lifting from the text without modification
- make sure to eliminate any extra material which could invalidate an otherwise-correct answer
- read the questions carefully and make sure that their answers are directly linked to the precise questions asked
- bear in mind that in Questions 4 and 6, answers in the first person are unlikely to be correct
- aim to attempt every question in the paper, as leaving questions blank offers no chance of scoring a mark
- remember that in Questions 4 and 6, the questions follow the order of the text
- plan their time carefully so that they have enough time to deal with the longer, more demanding exercises, and allow time at the end to check their answers (or check them as they work through the paper)
- read the rubrics carefully and write clearly and legibly in the spaces provided. If they change their mind about an answer, they should ensure their final response is clear and obvious.

General comments

Most candidates demonstrated a good understanding of the texts and attempted all the questions.

In the exercises which required short written answers, the best responses were those which were concise and focused on the precise piece of information required to answer the question. Weaker responses included whole sentences which were copied from the text, and this often resulted in inappropriate information being included in the answer.

Candidates need to be unambiguous in their answers and be able to correctly manipulate verbs, personal pronouns and possessive adjectives.

Candidates who have a wide range of vocabulary and are able to recognise synonyms will be equipped to tackle the exercises in this paper, in particular Question 5.

Candidates who can correctly recognise interrogatives usually provide more appropriate answers.

Comments on specific questions

Question 1

In this question candidates needed to match short sentences in Spanish with the correct picture. All pictures and sentences were related to school. Candidates need to remember that one of the pictures is surplus to requirements. In general, candidates attempted all questions, and many gained full marks. Almost all candidates knew ciencias and linked it with option B, and nearly all candidates understood the word atletismo and matched it to option E. Most candidates linked deberes with the correct answer, option A, but a few candidates chose option C instead. Most candidates knew a pie and matched it to option F. Many candidates knew ajedrez and chose the correct answer, option D, but some weaker candidates were not familiar with this item of vocabulary.

Question 2

In this question candidates read five sentences in Spanish and needed to match each sentence with the correct option from eight signs/notices found in a tourist information centre. In general, candidates attempted all the questions, and many gained full marks. Most candidates were able to link cantante with option E (conciertos), but there was a range of incorrect responses from candidates who were unfamiliar with the vocabulary. Most candidates were able to link cenar with option G (restaurantes), but option H (previsión del tiempo) was a common incorrect answer. Almost all candidates linked jugar al tenis with option B (actividades deportivas), and nearly all candidates could link castillo antiguo with option F (monumentos). Most candidates were able to link autobuses with option C (transportes), but weaker candidates often selected option D (alquiler coches) instead.

Question 3

Candidates read a text about Mateo's hometown and answered a set of seven multiple-choice questions, each of which had three options. In most cases, candidates attempted all the questions, and many gained full marks.

Question 3(a): Candidates needed to understand the synonyms hermosa and bonita in order to select the correct answer, option A.

Question 3(b): Most candidates were able to link hace natación with option C (voy a nadar).

Question 3(c): This was the question that was answered best in this exercise. Candidates needed to link option B (todo el año) with the phrase los 12 meses del año in the text.

Question 3(d): Candidates needed to read the text and options carefully in order to conclude that option B (salió de noche) was the correct response. Weaker candidates often linked the verb limpió in option A with the adjective limpio mentioned in the text.

Question 3(e): Candidates needed to read the text carefully in order to select the correct response, option A. The best candidates understood the phrases el clima [...] es muy seco and hay desiertos, and therefore realised that [llueve] poco was the correct answer.

Question 3(f): Candidates needed to link the phrase los miércoles... in the text with option C (todas las semanas). Option B (una vez al mes) was a common incorrect answer.

Question 3(g): Candidates needed to read the question and text closely in order to select the correct answer, option C. The references in the text to puerto and mar meant that the answer was está en la costa.

Question 4

In Question 4 candidates are required to answer questions on a longer text, which in this case was a blog by Silvia about having an international gymnast as a parent. Candidates were required to write short responses in Spanish. The text was written in the first person; candidates needed to take care to change the first person to the third person when required in order to make their answers unambiguous. Many of the answers could be answered with a precise lift from the text, but responses needed to be succinct and unambiguous in order to demonstrate sufficient comprehension.

Question 4(a): Most candidates were able to recognise that the interrogative cuándo required a time reference as the answer and were able to respond succinctly with ayer.

Question 4(b): Candidates needed to read the question carefully in order to provide a correct answer (gimnasia or es gimnasta). Weaker candidates did not seem to know the difference between gimnasia, gimnasta or gimnástico/a.

Question 4(c): This was question that required two answers. Most candidates located the correct information in the text, but only the best candidates were able to provide answers that were unambiguous. For one answer, candidates could write no la/le/lo creían; in general, candidates struggled to manipulate the pronouns adequately. A common incorrect response was lifting from the text and leaving the answer in the first person (no me creían). Another common incorrect response was changing the pronoun me to the reflexive se (i.e. no se creían), which changed the meaning and could not therefore be awarded the mark.

For the other answer, candidates could lift gritaron mentira directly from the text, but many copied the wrong part of the text or just wrote mentira, which was not sufficient to gain the mark.

Question 4(d): This was the question that was answered best in this exercise, with most candidates providing the correct answer (especial).

Question 4(e): Stronger candidates found the correct answer (está acostumbrada), but weaker candidates focused on the mention of the younger gymnasts wearing a lot of make-up.

Question 4(f): Most candidates located the answer in the text, but only the stronger candidates gave sufficient information (e.g. seis horas de ejercicio diarias) for the mark to be awarded. The word diarias was essential here in order to gain the mark.

Question 4(g): Candidates needed to change the word tercera in the text to tres in order to answer this question correctly.

Question 4(h): Candidates needed to read the text and question carefully in order to establish the correct answer (estaba muy enferma). Many incorrect answers referred to Silvia's mum being from Paraguay.

Question 4(i): Many candidates understood the interrogative quién and were able to identify the correct response (gimnastas españoles).

Question 4(j): Most candidates recognised that the response needed to be a feeling, and answered succinctly with orgullosa.

Question 4(k): Candidates needed to change the possessive pronoun mi to su in order to provide an appropriate response (e.g. para ver a su madre competir).

Question 5

Candidates were required to match a series of descriptions with the requirements and interests of five different people looking for a place to live. There were therefore three descriptions that were surplus to requirements. Candidates needed to process a range of information and look for the best-fit accommodation for each person. Candidates with a wide range of vocabulary and knowledge of synonyms tended to perform better in this exercise than those whose range of vocabulary and knowledge of synonyms was less well developed. In general, there was a good response to this question.

Question 5(a): Candidates needed to process a range of information from Sonia, e.g. the number of bedrooms required, the age of the house, its location and its proximity to public transport. The correct answer was option 6.

Question 5(b): Candidates needed to consider the number of bedrooms required and the house's proximity to nightlife and the city centre. They also needed to make the connection between Gabriel having a trabajo bien pagado and being able to afford apartamentos lujosos y exclusivos in option 4.

Question 5(c): Candidates needed to understand Miguel's requirements in terms of the type of accommodation, the number of bedrooms, the parking arrangements and the desired views in order to select the correct answer (option 1).

Question 5(d): Candidates needed to understand that Carmen did not like escaleras or ascensores so wanted a casa de una planta. As she lived alone (vive sola), she only needed one bedroom (un dormitorio) and her request for a cocina amplia con aparatos modernas linked with the muebles de alto nivel en todas las habitaciones which were mentioned in option 8.

Question 5(e): This was the question that was answered best in this exercise, with most candidates selecting the correct answer, option 2.

Question 6

Candidates had to answer questions on a longer, more demanding text about travel to school. Candidates were required to write short responses in Spanish. Responses need to be precise and unambiguous. Verbs, personal pronouns and possessive adjectives need to be correctly manipulated.

Question 6(a): This was a question that required two answers. Only the strongest candidates were able to give two correct responses. Candidates needed to understand that the interrogative cuándo required a time reference as a response. For one answer, candidates needed to write (a la) hora de llegada (de los alumnos), but many candidates either copied too much and invalidated their response or selected the wrong piece of information from the text. For the other answer, candidates could lift the answer (a la) salida de clase directly from the text, but they needed to ensure that they did not include the phrase es igual, as this invalidated the response.

Question 6(b): Most candidates were able to locate the correct answer in the text, but only the strongest candidates were able to perform a successful transformation of the verb from the first person into the third person (i.e. from empecé a preocuparme to empezó a preocuparse). The verb and reflexive pronoun both needed to be manipulated in order for the mark to be awarded.

Question 6(c): Candidates needed to make the necessary changes to the subject and verb ending in order to gain the mark here. They needed to write respiran con mayor frecuencia que los adultos or los jóvenes respiran con mayor frecuencia (que los adultos) in order for the mark to be awarded. Weaker candidates tended to respond with respira... in the singular, or started their answer with como...; neither of these answer could be rewarded.

Question 6(d): The stronger candidates answered succinctly with one word (dificultades), but most included too much information from the text, which invalidated the answer.

Question 6(e): This was the question that was answered best in this exercise, with many candidates writing reducir el tráfico.

Question 6(f): Candidates needed to change the object pronoun me to le in order to form an unambiguous answer (no le parecía una buena idea). Some candidates tried to use the verb creer from the following sentence, but often confused it with crear.

Question 6(g): Most candidates understood the question and what the answer needed to be, but only the stronger candidates could manipulate the verb from the first-person plural to the third-person plural (presentaron algunas ideas).

Question 6(h): Most candidates seemed to understand the question and located the correct part of the text, but many invalidated their response by including the phrase al recogernos. The required answer was 50 metros de la puerta.

Question 6(i): This was a question that required two answers. For one answer, candidates needed to write (hizo) un curso de seguridad en bicicleta. Most candidates were able to locate the correct answer in the text, and the stronger ones could manipulate the verb hacer from the first to the third person, but the inclusion of the verb was not essential in order to gain the mark. For the other answer, candidates needed to include su padre in their response, changing the possessive pronoun from mi in the text. Candidates also needed to change mi bicicleta to su bicicleta or la bicicleta. Acceptable answers included su padre ha arreglado su bicicleta and la reparación de su bicicleta.

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/23
Reading

Key messages

To maximise their chances of success on this paper, candidates should:

- aim to write short, accurate answers – sometimes a single word is appropriate – and not rely on lifting from the text without modification
- make sure to eliminate any extra material which could invalidate an otherwise-correct answer
- read the questions carefully and make sure that their answers are directly linked to the precise questions asked
- bear in mind that in Questions 4 and 6, answers in the first person are unlikely to be correct
- aim to attempt every question in the paper, as leaving questions blank offers no chance of scoring a mark
- remember that in Questions 4 and 6, the questions follow the order of the text
- plan their time carefully so that they have enough time to deal with the longer, more demanding exercises, and allow time at the end to check their answers (or check them as they work through the paper)
- read the rubrics carefully and write clearly and legibly in the spaces provided. If they change their mind about an answer, they should ensure their final response is clear and obvious.

General comments

Most candidates demonstrated a good understanding of the texts and attempted all the questions.

In the exercises which required short written answers, the best responses were those which were concise and focused on the precise piece of information required to answer the question. Weaker responses included whole sentences which were copied from the text, and this often resulted in inappropriate information being included in the answer.

Candidates need to be unambiguous in their answers and be able to correctly manipulate verbs, personal pronouns and possessive adjectives.

Candidates who have a wide range of vocabulary and are able to recognise synonyms will be equipped to tackle the exercises in this paper, in particular Question 5.

Candidates who can correctly recognise interrogatives usually provide more appropriate answers.

Comments on specific questions

Question 1

In this question candidates needed to match short sentences in Spanish with the correct picture. All pictures and sentences were related to injuries and illnesses. Candidates need to remember that one of the pictures is surplus to requirements. In general, candidates attempted all questions, and many gained full marks. Many candidates were able to link garganta with option F, but there was a range of incorrect answers. Many candidates understood the word cansada and chose the correct answer, option C. Almost all candidates matched diente with option E. Many candidates knew dedo and chose option D. Most candidates knew pierna and chose the correct response, option A.

Question 2

In this question candidates read five sentences in Spanish and needed to match each sentence with the correct option from eight signs/notices found at a campsite. In general, candidates attempted all the questions, and many gained full marks. Candidates needed to link coche with option C (aparcamiento); many chose option D (zona para barbacoas) instead. The word aparcamiento seemed to be an unfamiliar vocabulary item for a number of candidates. Most candidates were able to link lavarme with option E (duchas), but option C (aparcamiento) was a common incorrect response. Nearly all candidates matched café con tostadas with option H (servimos desayunos), and almost all candidates were able to link crema para el sol with option B (farmacia). Most candidates were able to link ejercicio with option A (se alquilan bicicletas).

Question 3

Candidates read a text about pocket money and shopping, and answered a set of seven multiple-choice questions, each of which had three options. In most cases, candidates attempted all the questions, and many gained full marks.

Question 3(a): This was the question that was answered best in this exercise, with almost all candidates choosing the correct answer, option B.

Question 3(b): Nearly all candidates were able to link option A (ir de compras) with the phrase voy de tiendas in the text.

Question 3(c): Candidates needed to link vive poca gente in the text with option A (pocos habitantes). Some candidates were distracted by the mention of tiendas in the text and chose option B (instead).

Question 3(d): Most candidates were successful in linking the phrase una vez al mes in the text with option C (todos los meses).

Question 3(e): Candidates needed to read the text carefully in order to select the correct response, option C.

Question 3(f): Almost all candidates found the correct answer, option B.

Question 3(g): Candidates needed to read the text and options carefully in order to select the correct answer, option C.

Question 4

In Question 4 candidates are required to answer questions on a longer text, which in this case was a blog by Íñigo about exercise. Candidates were required to write short responses in Spanish. The text was written in the first person; candidates needed to take care to change the first person to the third person when required in order to make their answers unambiguous. Many of the answers could be answered with a precise lift from the text, but responses needed to be succinct and unambiguous in order to demonstrate sufficient comprehension.

Question 4(a): This was the question that was answered best in this exercise, with most candidates recognising that the question was asking for a time frame and answering succinctly with seis meses.

Question 4(b): Most candidates were able to locate the answer in the text (tres veces a la semana), but some lifted too much and invalidated their answer.

Question 4(c): The stronger candidates could answer with one word (dificiles), but weaker candidates often copied too much from the text.

Question 4(d): Most candidates knew the interrogative quién. They were able to change the possessive adjective from the first person to the third person and respond correctly with su padre.

Question 4(e): Most candidates responded correctly with el aire fresco.

Question 4(f): Candidates could simply lift les enfadaba from the text, but weaker candidates tended to keep mis padres in their answer or offer one of the answers to Question 4(g) instead.

Question 4(g): This was a question that required two answers. For one answer, candidates could simply write ejercicio. For the other answer, candidates could just write desayunar. For both answers, weaker candidates tended to copy far too much in the hope of including the correct answer somewhere in their response. The strongest candidates gave answers that were precise and unambiguous.

Question 4(h): Candidates needed to change the verb estar into the third person (i.e. así está en forma) or use an infinitive (i.e. para estar en forma). Inclusion of the word así was essential for the mark to be awarded if está was used in the answer.

Question 4(i): Candidates needed to fully understand the question in order to extract the correct answer (buenos comentarios). There was some confusion here, with weaker candidates often writing an answer which described what the blog was about.

Question 4(j): The best candidates understood the requirements of the question and wrote Estados Unidos. The answer estadounidenses was also accepted. Many weaker candidates lifted algunos expertos estadounidenses de tomar cenas ligeras from the text, which demonstrated a lack of understanding.

Question 4(k): Most candidates knew that the interrogative cuánto tiempo meant that a time was required as the answer (in this case, una hora). Weaker candidates copied too much information and did not demonstrate sufficient comprehension.

Question 5

Candidates were required to match a series of descriptions with the requirements and interests of five different people looking for an appropriate book. There were therefore three descriptions that were surplus to requirements. Candidates needed to process a range of information and look for the best-fit book for each person. Candidates with a wide range of vocabulary and knowledge of synonyms tended to perform better in this exercise than those whose range of vocabulary and knowledge of synonyms was less well developed. In general, there was a very good response to this question.

Question 5(a): Most candidates were able to link Daniela's comment suelo ir de viaje with the phrase planear tus vacaciones in option 6 and make the connection between deciding where to go and planning holidays.

Question 5(b): Almost all candidates were able to link Aarón's references to cocinar with the references to cookery (cena, cocina, recetas) in option 3.

Question 5(c): Most candidates were able to understand Lucas' reference to different languages and the link tableta and versión electrónica in order to select option 4.

Question 5(d): Candidates needed to understand that Ángela wanted to create her own comics and therefore wanted a book that would teach her how to draw (option 2).

Question 5(e): Candidates needed to link the phrase el pasado in what Raúl said with the word historia in option 7. Some candidates chose option 8 instead, perhaps because they were distracted by the phrase pase lo que pase.

Question 6

Candidates had to answer questions on a longer, more demanding text about the San Jacobo fiestas in Barcelona. Candidates were required to write short responses in Spanish. Responses need to be precise and unambiguous. Verbs, personal pronouns and possessive adjectives need to be correctly manipulated.

Question 6(a): Most candidates understood that the question required a feeling as a response and those who read the text carefully found the answer emocionado. A common incorrect answer was estresado, but this was not how Santiago was feeling when he thought about going to Barcelona. A few did not read or understand the question correctly and wrote celebran las fiestas de San Jacobo.

Question 6(b): Most candidates were able to locate the correct answer in the text and many were able to change the possessive adjective (from mi padre to su padre), but they then kept the rest of the sentence in the first person, with many using the reported speech that was in the text. The verbs needed to be manipulated into the third person (e.g. odia conducir tan lejos) in order to gain the mark.

Question 6(c): Most candidates realised that the interrogative de quién in the question was asking for a person. Candidates needed to change mi tío to su tío, but a number of candidates encountered difficulty with this and responses such as se tío and el tío were common.

Question 6(d): Stronger candidates were able to change the verb from the first person to the third person and produce a correct answer (e.g. continuó estudiando). The infinitive estudiar was also acceptable as a response in its own right.

Question 6(e): This was a question that required two answers. There were a number of responses that were completely wrong and which showed no understanding of what the question was asking. For one answer, (la foto) era (de) mentira was required. The verb creer caused some problems when candidates tried to use it in their response, either by keeping it in the first person or not manipulating it correctly. For the other answer, the phrase alguien quería reírse could be lifted directly from the text, but candidates needed to omit me pregunté from the beginning of the sentence in order to gain the mark.

Question 6(f): Once candidates located the correct part of the text, they needed to manipulate the verb ser to the third person (i.e. es (muy) curioso). Many candidates focused instead on the information in the preceding paragraph (el chico de la foto era casi igual que yo/él/Santiago), which was incorrect.

Question 6(g): Although most candidates were able to locate the correct answer in the text, only the strongest ones were able to manipulate me sorprendí into the third person. The responses se sorprendió and le sorprendió were accepted, as well as the noun sorpresa. There were a lot of variations of spellings.

Question 6(h): The answer charlando por Internet could be lifted directly from the text. A few candidates were successful in using the preterite (charlaron). Incorrect answers tended to refer to the rest of the sentence (averiguamos que nuestros abuelos eran primos).

Question 6(i): This was a question that required two answers. Most candidates located the correct information in the text, but some tried unsuccessfully to manipulate the verbs in the future. For one answer, candidates could lift disfrutar de las fiestas directly from the text. The word tendré was often included in the responses, or there were attempts at producing the third person form of the verb (e.g. tendró). For the other answer, candidates could lift ir a Barcelona from the text. Weaker candidates referred to mi padre dijo que me acompañaría a Barcelona or tried to manipulate it into the third person.

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/03
Speaking

Key messages

- Examiners need to ensure that they familiarise themselves with the scripts for both the role plays and the topic conversations before conducting any 'live' speaking tests. They must adhere to the scripts as set out in the relevant instructions for teachers/examiners booklet.
- At the start of each candidate's test, the examiner should greet the candidate using the prompts provided and set the scene for the role play by reading out the role play scenario. The examiner should select the appropriate form for their role, e.g. in role play 1 the examiner needed to say either Yo soy el dependiente or Yo soy la dependienta (rather than reading out the whole phrase Yo soy el dependiente/la dependienta).
- In the topic conversations, examiners should always make use of the scripted alternative questions when candidates are unable to provide a response to the main question.
- In the topic conversations, examiners should be prepared to use extension questions. If candidates answer briefly, examiners can encourage a fuller response by asking extension questions or prompts such as Háblame un poco más sobre..., ¿Qué más me puedes decir sobre...? and ¿Puedes decirme algo más (sobre eso)?. The extension questions give candidates the opportunity to develop their ideas and provide justifications, opinions and explanations so that they can demonstrate their command of a range of more complex language and structures.
- In the interests of fairness to all candidates, examiners should adhere to the timings for the two topic conversations. If the topic conversations last 3½ minutes or less, examiners should use up to two open-ended further questions, on the same topic, to make sure the conversations last 4 minutes. They should not repeat previous questions that they have already asked earlier in the conversation or use the alternative questions as further questions.
- Candidates should be encouraged to learn (and know how to use accurately) a range of verb forms, particularly the present, past and future. Equally, candidates should ensure that they know a good range of vocabulary relating to the various topics listed in the syllabus.
- Examiners must not share the role plays or the topics of the topic conversations with candidates before their speaking test. In addition, examiners must not share the topics of the topic conversations with the candidates during their preparation time.

General comments

To be read in conjunction with the instructions for teachers/examiners booklet (November 2021).

Please note that examiners must follow the randomisation instructions provided when allocating role plays and topic conversations to candidates.

Examiners are reminded that once a speaking test has started, the recording must run without interruption and must not be stopped or paused at any point during the test.

Almost all centres sent the correct sample size for moderation and the quality of the recordings was generally good. Centres are responsible for ensuring the quality of recordings and it is essential that centres check this before despatching them to Cambridge International.

Each sample that you submit to Cambridge International must contain a recorded introduction. This should include the centre number, the centre name, the syllabus and component number, the syllabus name and the exam series/year (e.g. November 2021). At the start of the test, and after pressing 'record' on the recording equipment, the examiner must announce their own name, followed by the candidate's number and name, the role play card number and the date on which the speaking test is taking place. Candidates should not introduce themselves.

Each recorded file in the sample must be named clearly using the following convention:

centre number_candidate number_syllabus number_component number.

CDs need to be labelled clearly with the centre name, centre number and the candidates' names and numbers in the order in which they appear on the CD.

In most cases, the working mark sheets were completed correctly. Examiners need to remember to enter the candidate name, candidate number, role play card number, topic conversation numbers and breakdown of marks in the appropriate columns. The name of the examiner conducting the test needs to be legible.

The majority of centres assessed their candidates fairly. All assessment needs to follow the marking criteria as set out in the relevant instructions for teachers/examiners booklet. Examiners should be consistent in their marking. Marking should be positive, rewarding achievement.

Comments on specific questions

Role Plays

The nine role plays were all set in situations in which candidates could find themselves in real life. The first two tasks in each role play were of a factual nature and gave candidates the opportunity to answer briefly. Short responses to tasks 1 and 2 were perfectly acceptable. The last three tasks gave candidates the opportunity to give longer responses. The majority of candidates coped well with the role plays, with most candidates able to use appropriate vocabulary and a variety of tenses correctly. Questions which asked quién and cuándo were the ones that candidates most often struggled with.

Most examiners assessed their candidates well in the role plays, although a few were too severe. Some candidates were not rewarded sufficiently when they committed only minor errors which did not impede or confuse the message that they needed to transmit. Some candidates did not receive due credit when they offered a brief response. If it is accurate and communicates the required information, a brief response can be awarded the full two marks available for the task.

Role play 1: In task 2, some candidates were not familiar with the word talla. In task 3, the verb se celebra was not known by some candidates. Although candidates generally responded well to the first element of task 4, including use of a correct timeframe, some candidates had difficulty using an accurate past tense in response to the second element, resulting in an ambiguous response.

Role play 2: In task 2, some candidates struggled with ¿Para cuánto tiempo? In task 5, some candidates explained which countries, rather than cities, they would like to visit.

Role play 3: In task 3, several candidates omitted to respond to one of the two elements of the task, usually the ¿cuándo? element.

Role play 4: In task 2, most candidates managed to communicate a size, but some candidates struggled with the word tamaño. In task 3, a number of candidates encountered difficulty with the verb ver in the preterite tense. The second element of the task (a description of the contents of the suitcase) was generally completed very well. In task 5, the question ¿Qué piensa hacer? was not always understood.

Role play 5: In task 3, some candidates struggled with the verb volver. In response to task 5, a brief response to the first element of the task was perfectly sufficient.

Role play 6: In task 4, a number of candidates could not handle the verb empezar in the preterite tense.

Role play 7: In task 5, some candidates did not know the word invierno.

Role play 8: In task 2, some candidates misunderstood the phrase documento de identificación.

Role play 9: In response to task 4, a number of candidates encountered difficulty with the pronunciation of cocinar and with forming the preterite tense of cocinar.

Topic Conversations

Examiners are reminded to introduce the topic area just before they start each conversation. The first three topics were based on one of the sub-topics of Areas A and B as listed in the syllabus. The last four topics were based on one of the sub-topics of Areas C, D and E in the syllabus. All the sub-topics were familiar to candidates and a full range of performance was seen, with each conversation having its easier and more challenging tasks. As in the role plays, the first two tasks in each conversation were more closed and straightforward in nature and were set at an easier level to start off the conversation. They could be answered briefly and with factual language. The final three tasks in each conversation were more open and required candidates to communicate in past and future timeframes. Each topic conversation also gave candidates the opportunity to express opinions and, where appropriate, develop the reasons for their opinions.

It is important that examiners familiarise themselves with the difference between alternative questions (which allow candidates the opportunity to respond when they haven't been able to say anything in response to the main question), extension questions (which the examiner can use within the body of the main topic conversation itself in order to elicit a fuller response from the candidate) and further questions (which the examiner can use in order to ensure that the topic conversation adheres to the timings stipulated in the instructions for teachers/examiners booklet).

Examiners should ensure that they read and follow the information printed at the top of each page on which the topic conversations are printed. Some examiners did not understand how to use the alternative questions. In some cases, the candidates gave a suitable and full answer to the main question, and the examiner then asked the alternative question as well, which caused some confusion for candidates.

In general, almost all candidates were able to attempt the questions even if weaker candidates were less successful compared to their stronger counterparts because of limited vocabulary and/or a limited grasp of verb forms. Stronger candidates responded confidently to the tasks and often expanded their responses, even if not prompted to do so. They communicated relevant information which justified and explained their responses, thereby giving themselves access to the higher mark bands in many cases.

Some examiners were too generous in their assessment of Communication, but too severe in their assessment of Quality of Language. Candidates do not need to be of native-speaker standard to achieve the highest possible mark. To score highly in the topic conversations, candidates need to do more than answer each question briefly: they should also be able to provide explanations, opinions and justifications, and use more complex language and structures. Examiners need to adjust their questioning by using alternative and extension questions as necessary in order to give candidates every opportunity to perform to the best of their ability. Candidates should be encouraged to listen carefully to the timeframe of the task and to respond accordingly, e.g. by using an appropriate verb tense and/or time marker such as ayer or en el futuro.

Topic 1, la salud: Most candidates communicated the necessary information well.

Topic 2, el tiempo libre: Most candidates responded successfully and in detail to the five tasks. In task 2, candidates needed to focus on the precise question asked before beginning and developing their response. Some candidates were not familiar with the reflexive verb levantarse.

Topic 3, en casa: In task 3, the verb ayudar in the preterite was not understood by some candidates.

Topic 4, el medio ambiente: There were many well-developed responses to the tasks; it was clear that many candidates had practised talking about this topic during their course of study. However, some candidates struggled to respond to tasks 4 and 5.

Topic 5, los estudios y el trabajo: Candidates sometimes struggled with task 5, although there were many good and excellent responses too.

Topic 6, la cultura y los festivales: A number of candidates encountered difficulty with tasks 4 and 5. In some cases, if candidates had been asked the alternative questions available, these difficulties might have been resolved. In response to task 4, candidates tended to rely on a few vocabulary items and struggled to put sentences together.

Topic 7, tu zona: The majority of candidates managed to communicate all of the required information. In task 1, some candidates did not know the word barrio.

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/41
Writing

Key messages

- Candidates should read the initial rubric of each question and each task carefully to ensure that the response that they produce is relevant and includes appropriate tenses.
- In order to ensure that they respond to all the tasks in Questions 2 and 3, candidates may benefit from attempting the tasks in the order in which they appear on the question paper.
- Candidates should recognise the need to use an appropriate range of structures, tenses and vocabulary in their response to Question 3 in order to give themselves access to the full range of marks available. Similarly, they need to develop their responses by including additional information (e.g. explanations, reasons, opinions, etc.).
- Candidates should pay careful attention to the formation of vowels and the placement of accents as these features can affect the marks for the three criteria in Question 3.
- It is recommended that candidates adhere to the word counts for Questions 2 and 3.

General comments

Work from the whole ability range was seen. Many candidates performed very well in Questions 1 and 2. In Question 3 stronger candidates showed control of varied sentence structures and verb tenses, and complex linguistic structures were seen, including idiomatic expressions.

In Question 1 candidates should always try to produce an answer for each of the five gaps. They need to read the initial rubric carefully, as well as the tasks themselves, so that they can provide appropriate responses. Candidates should avoid writing answers outside the dotted lines provided. Extra answers for one task cannot compensate for other tasks that have not been attempted or that are incorrect.

In Question 2 up to 12 marks are awarded based on task completion, relevance, clarity of the message, variety of vocabulary and structures, and the use of linking words. There is no requirement to provide the same amount of information for each of the tasks. Candidates should be reminded that the maximum of 12 marks cannot be awarded if they omit or do not successfully convey at least one detail for each of the tasks, including tasks that have more than one element. Candidates are required to write responses in full sentences and to form their response as a piece of prose, rather than as a series of bullet points. Candidates need to produce a recognisable part of an appropriate verb in order to gain credit for task completion. It is acceptable for two tasks to be completed in a single sentence. Candidates need to link their words, phrases and sentences using a range of simple connectors (e.g. y, también, pero, etc.).

Question 3 offers a choice of two options: a letter/email and a report/article. There are 10 marks available for Task completion, 10 marks for Range and 8 marks for Accuracy. The marks for Range are awarded based on the candidates' ability to extend and link sentences, and the range of tenses and other structures used, as well as the range of vocabulary. Candidates should ensure that they select the question which will allow them to best show the Spanish that they know. Candidates should read through both options before choosing which one to answer. A close reading of the tasks within the questions is recommended as this will allow candidates to think about the vocabulary and structures that they will need to use in order to respond effectively and fully.

Task completion: For a task to be considered complete, candidates must respond using the tense required by the task, with the production of a wholly accurate verb. Minor spelling errors might be tolerated, e.g. when a missing accent does not produce another tense which causes ambiguity.

Range: The use of extended sentences, a range of connectives, tenses, varied structures including idioms and vocabulary is required in order to reach the top mark band. When the descriptor states 'uses', it should be read as 'uses successfully'. Candidates who struggle to use basic tenses are likely to achieve a maximum of five marks for Range. Only those who attempt some complex structures are able to access a mark of six or higher for Range.

Accuracy: Candidates do not have to produce a perfectly accurate piece of writing in order to achieve the full 8 marks available for Accuracy. Minor errors which do not impede communication are tolerated.

When finalising their responses for Questions 2 and 3, candidates need to be careful if they decide to cross out any parts of their response. There were some instances where crossing-out had occurred, and this affected the coherence and clarity of the piece of writing overall.

Comments on specific questions

Question 1: Tu amigo, Pablo, quiere ser miembro de un polideportivo en España.

The majority of candidates achieved the full five marks available for this question. A single word was sufficient to gain the mark for each of the five tasks. Many candidates produced accurate spellings in each of their responses and there was a very wide variety of sports offered for task 1. Minor spelling errors were tolerated as long as the word would be recognised and understood by a native speaker of Spanish. In many cases, minor spelling errors did not prevent the award of marks (e.g. balloncesto, fútbol and boxe were all accepted in response to task 2). However, spelling errors which produced a word with a different meaning (e.g. majo instead of mayo) could not be rewarded. Words or phrases that were unrecognisable as Spanish could not be credited (e.g. branco or amarillio for task 5).

Question 2: Las películas

Most candidates were able to use familiar language and structures when responding to Question 2, and many gained full marks here. Candidates who worked methodically through the tasks in order were less likely to omit one of them. There were many interesting and competent responses which included a variety of vocabulary related to the cinema and detailed information, sometimes expressed in more complex language. Weaker candidates struggled to respect gender agreements when using articles, nouns and adjectives. In the best responses, candidates produced accurate verbs throughout their response. Weaker candidates relied upon infinitives or offered inappropriate tenses and spelling of verbs. There was a wide variation in control of verb formations. Where a spelling error in a verb created a word that did not exist in the verb's paradigm, this was taken into account when establishing the final mark for the piece of writing. The absence of accents on verbs was frequent but did not usually prevent candidates from achieving a high mark. Whilst most tasks could be answered using the present tense, other tenses were used appropriately by some candidates. The inappropriate use of several tenses within a response to a single task was often seen. Stronger candidates used a range of basic connectors (y, o, pero, también), whereas weaker candidates tended to rely on y and porque.

Task 1 was answered well by most candidates, who were able to state what type of films they liked. There were frequent errors with the verb gustar, as well as mistakes with pronouns (mi or mí was often used where me would have been appropriate), and the plural ending was often seen in place of the singular and vice versa.

Tasks 2 and 3 required candidates to state whether they prefer to watch films at home or at the cinema, and why. There was a range of responses to these tasks and most candidates were able to state their preference and provide a reason. It was common to see misspellings of the verb preferir (e.g. preferio, prefirio). In some cases, the misspellings were still accurate enough for the tasks to be considered complete. In addition, candidates need to remember that the verb preferir is not a reflexive verb. Some candidates opted to use the verb gustar and there were some errors of conjugation with me gusta + infinitive (e.g. me gusta veo). Weaker candidates did not know the topic-specific vocabulary and referred to la televisión grande en el cine instead of la pantalla.

Task 4 required candidates to say who they normally go to the cinema with. Most candidates responded successfully here, correctly identifying another person. Some candidates were unable to manipulate the verb from the task, using the tú form of the verb (e.g. normalmente vas al cine con mi amigo).

Task 5 was addressed successfully by most candidates, who were generally able to respond using a future timeframe. A clear reference to the future was needed, either by using a verb referring to the future (e.g. voy a ver, espero ver, quiero ver) or by using the present tense along with a future time phrase (e.g. el próximo sábado veo una película). A few candidates used a future timeframe with an inappropriate past tense verb (e.g. el fin de semana próximo vi una película) and in these cases the task could not be considered complete.

Question 3: General comments

Most candidates chose Question 3(a), and many produced interesting responses. The strongest responses were well-structured and showed signs of thoughtful planning. Some candidates gained fewer marks than they could have done because they omitted to cover one or more of the tasks. Candidates generally respected the guidelines about length, producing between 130 and 140 words.

Task completion

In order to obtain high marks for Task completion, candidates need to ensure that they:

- address all of the tasks given in the question
- provide sufficient information relating to each task by expressing a range of details/opinions/reactions/explanations – one good strategy that candidates can use is to provide at least two full sentences in response to each task
- address the specific tasks set
- use verbs accurately
- use an appropriate tense and person of the verb when responding to each task
- copy accurately when using words provided in the question.

Range

Many candidates expressed their ideas using extended, well-linked sentences which demonstrated strong cohesion as well as correct and varied use of vocabulary, verbs and other structures.

The strongest responses included use of subordinate clauses throughout the pieces of writing, introduced by a variety of conjunctions and relative pronouns, appropriate and accurate use of a range of timeframes, and accurately formed verbs in the first, third and, sometimes, second person (including accents, where required). Such responses also tended to include a wide range of interesting vocabulary which was relevant to the question chosen, idiomatic expressions and appropriate use of the subjunctive.

It is important that all candidates show control of basic structures, including correct spelling and gender. Access to the higher mark bands is more likely to be achieved through accurate and appropriate use of:

- subordinate clauses introduced by conjunctions, relative pronouns, etc., produced throughout the response (e.g. cuando/donde/mientras (que)/visto que/puesto que/dado que/ya que/que/quien/si)
- appropriate formation of constructions with verbs requiring a preposition (e.g. hablar con, con quien hablé)
- a range of timeframes and first-person and third-person verb forms
- adjectives, possessive adjectives, demonstrative adjectives, comparative/superlative adjectives
- adjectival agreement between the subject and its adjective(s)
- correct use and placement of object pronouns in relation to conjugated verbs and infinitives
- negatives, including appropriate word order (e.g. nada/nunca)
- correct use of por and para
- adverbs, prepositional phrases, time references, opinion markers
- linking words other than y, pero and porque
- definite and indefinite articles.

Candidates who did not attempt structures from the list above or who did not use subordinate clauses could not usually achieve a mark higher than five for Range. A response which is entirely, or almost entirely, in short sentences, without any subordinate clauses, is highly likely to be limited to three or four marks for Range. To achieve a mark beyond the 5–6 band, candidates need to ensure that they include a range of tenses, several subordinate clauses, a range of more ambitious connectives (e.g. aunque, además, etc.), opinion markers (e.g. pienso que, opino que, etc.) and vocabulary, as well as some of the structures listed above. In addition, basic structures must, in general, be used successfully.

Some candidates struggled when using both basic and more complex tenses. In order to improve, they need to ensure that they:

- include accents on verbs (where necessary) in the preterite, imperfect, future and conditional tenses
- include the personal a with verbs that require it
- form regular and common irregular verbs in the preterite, particularly the first-person singular (e.g. compré/comí/bebí/vi/elegí/hice/tuve/dije/practiqué/jugué)
- use appropriate prepositions in verb constructions when required (e.g. tengo que, ayudo a, tratar de)
- avoid using tiene where hay is required and vice versa, and es/son where hay is required and vice versa.

Accuracy

A high level of accuracy is expected for the award of marks in the top band. However, the response does not necessarily have to be faultless in order for such a mark to be given. Responses that contain minor errors (especially in more complex language) which do not affect communication can be considered for the award of marks in the top band.

Frequent inaccuracies will limit the overall mark awarded for Accuracy. Responses which show errors in basic tenses, in adjective-noun agreements and in other basic structures/words are likely to be placed in the 3–4 band, depending on how often these errors hinder communication. Similarly, candidates who produce a very short text using only basic language cannot usually achieve a mark beyond the 3–4 band since they will only have demonstrated some accurate spelling and grammar. Candidates who persistently struggle with accuracy in very basic language and whose errors persistently impede communication are likely to be placed in the 1–2 band.

Common errors

The following common errors were seen:

- omission of the relative pronoun que
- inaccurate spelling of simple adjectives and lack of agreement between the subject and the adjective
- inappropriate use of estar when ser was required and vice versa
- incorrect combinations of ser/estar with bueno/bien and malo/mal
- use of third-person singular of ser with a plural subject and third-person plural of ser with a singular subject
- incorrect formation of gustar/encantar in the present and conditional tenses, including the omission of the preceding a (e.g. a mí, me gusta)
- incorrect spelling of preferir in the present tense
- incorrect formation of hacer/decir/tener/poner/poder/querer in the preterite
- use of fue/fuiste when fui was intended
- use of second-person formation when the first-person was intended
- use of third-person formation when the first-person was intended
- omission of the appropriate preposition in verb constructions (e.g. ayudar a, ir a, tratar de)
- inappropriate inclusion of a preposition in verb constructions (e.g. es importante de, necesito de)
- omission of the preposition following verbs (e.g. fui a la casa de mi amigo, he soñado con)
- inappropriate translation of idioms from the candidate's first language (e.g. 'to have a good time' was translated literally as tener un buen tiempo when the Spanish idiom pasarlo bien was intended).

Question 3(a): Una excursión al zoo

This was the slightly more popular question, with approximately 55% of candidates choosing this option. Most candidates attempted or successfully addressed most of the tasks. There were good attempts at explanations and developments, and a significant number of candidates engaged well with the register of the task (i.e. an email to a friend), including appropriate salutations and endings.

Task completion

Task 1 required candidates to describe the zoo. Most candidates described the zoo only in the present tense, which was acceptable, but limited the range of tenses used. Stronger candidates described the zoo using a variety of tenses (e.g. cuando llegamos al zoo me quedé sorprendida porque el zoo era grande y había muchos animales).

Task 2 required candidates to say what they did at the zoo, and this was tackled well by the majority of candidates. Many candidates developed their answers using a range of topic-specific vocabulary and tenses (e.g. vi muchos animales que nunca había visto antes). Stronger candidates were able to talk about different animal species and their habitats.

Task 3 required candidates to explain why they would or would not recommend the zoo that they had visited. Candidates often found it difficult to form an appropriate response here, either because they could not spell te recomendaría correctly or because they could not use an appropriate tense to give a reason, or both. There were many examples of incorrect verb spelling here (e.g. recomando, recomendario) and several candidates lifted the second-person verb form recomendarías unaltered from the question. In such cases, these were considered to be unsuccessful attempts at the task. Stronger candidates used a variety of expressions for recommending the zoo together with suitable reasons (e.g. deberías ir al zoo porque tiene tantas cosas para hacer).

Task 4 required candidates to explain why it is or isn't a good idea to have animals in a zoo. This was addressed successfully by most candidates, with responses usually talking about the conditions in the zoo for the animals compared to their life in the wild. Stronger candidates used appropriate topic-specific vocabulary and attempted more complex language (e.g. animales en peligro de extinción and es importante que protejamos la naturaleza). Some candidates omitted to provide a response to this task as they had confused this task with task 3 and wrote just one sentence which could cover either one (but only one) of these tasks.

Task 5 required candidates to say what they thought about having a job relating to animals. Most candidates were confident using pienso que, but the second-person verb form (piensas que) was sometimes copied unaltered from the question, meaning that the task could not be considered complete. Some candidates opted to use the verb gustar (e.g. me gustaría trabajar con animales porque les puedes ayudar así) and despite the lack of accent on the letter í, this could be rewarded. Many candidates did not go beyond the present tense in their response to this task. Stronger candidates gave detailed responses using a variety of verbs and tenses (e.g. sería emocionante, quisiera ayudar a los animales heridos, lo estuve pensando todo el día y me encantaría tener un trabajo...).

Range

Some candidates demonstrated a strong grasp of the language, combining fluency, breadth and variety. These candidates used a broad range of tenses, which were mostly accurate, combined with other complex grammar and vocabulary. Only those candidates who could produce longer, complex sentences linked with a range of connectors could score a mark in the top band. For some candidates, it often proved difficult to gain a mark higher than five or six due to a lack of more complex tenses, grammar and vocabulary. The most common reasons for low marks being awarded in this category were inaccuracy of tenses (especially the preterite), an insufficient range of tenses and other complex structures, and ideas presented as a list of simple sentences with no attempt at linkage.

Accuracy

The stronger candidates, who often scored marks in the top mark band, tended to produce pieces of writing that contained only very minor errors that did not impede communication. The most common errors which hindered communication were errors in the subject, tenses or verbs. There were also many examples of confusion between por qué and porque.

Question 3(b): Una vida sana

This was the slightly less popular question, with about 45% of candidates choosing this option. However, it was generally tackled well, appealing to those candidates with good knowledge of the topic-specific vocabulary. Most candidates addressed all of the tasks, with some good attempts at explanations and development of ideas. Some candidates produced a standard piece of writing in response to the bullet points, whereas others engaged well with the register of the task (i.e. an article for the school magazine). Some candidates misunderstood the question and wrote an article talking about how to lead a healthy life in general, giving advice instead of talking about their personal experience.

Task completion

Task 1 asked candidates to say what they normally eat in order to lead a healthy life. Responses from weaker candidates tended to rely on repetition of como and bebo and mentioned a small number of food and drink items. Stronger candidates used a range of appropriate verbs along with a variety of topic-specific vocabulary (e.g. intento comer..., cuando pueda, incluyo proteína).

Task 2 asked candidates to describe the last time that they ate fast food. Weaker candidates struggled to use an accurate verb in the preterite (e.g. comé) or used the present tense instead. A significant number of responses contained the second-person verb form (comiste), which had been lifted directly from the question; in such cases task 2 could not be considered complete. Stronger candidates were able to say when they last ate fast food (e.g. la última vez que comí comida basura fue hace un mes), use a range of verbs in the preterite and give detailed explanations.

Task 3 required candidates to say what they had done recently to relax. This task required a response using a past-tense verb in order to complete the task. Many candidates responded in the present tense, saying what they normally do to relax (e.g. leo un libro, voy al polideportivo) and in these cases the task could not be considered complete. Some candidates were able to use the present perfect or other appropriate past tenses to give detailed answers (e.g. he visto una película, he hecho yoga, fui a la piscina).

Task 4 required candidates to explain why, in their opinion, some young people do not do sufficient exercise. This was attempted successfully by most candidates. Most responses referred to young people not having enough time because they are studying, or that young people prefer to play computer games. Many candidates generated a lot of appropriate topic-specific vocabulary (e.g. quieren hacer otras cosas que el deporte como salir con sus amigos o ir al cine).

Task 5 required candidates to explain why they would or would not like to try a new sport in future. Some candidates responded with a short, simple sentence in which an accurate form of the future was produced, together with an appropriate reason (e.g. me gustaría probar alpinismo porque parece peligroso). Weaker candidates did not address the task successfully because they used the second-person verb form unaltered from the question (e.g. no te gustaría probar...). Stronger candidates were able to exploit the opportunity and use more complex language (e.g. si saco buenas notas me apuntaré a clases de natación. Espero poderlas empezar pronto).

Range

Some candidates were able to include a wide range of connectives and appropriate linking words. Most candidates tended to use simple structures but made some attempt to use more complex structures. Stronger candidates included a very wide range of complex structures in their responses, such as si, cuando, ya que, aunque, debido a and lo que, and also included, sometimes, a wide range of connectives within one sentence. Some candidates were able to include accurate examples of the most complex structures, including subjunctive structures, indirect pronouns and conditional clauses. These candidates also often used a wide range of vocabulary specific to the topic. The most common reasons for low marks being awarded in this category were inaccuracy of tenses (especially the preterite), an insufficient range of tenses and other complex structures, and ideas presented as a list of simple sentences with no attempt at linkage.

Accuracy

Most candidates tended to use simple structures accurately. The most common errors which hindered communication were errors in the subject, tenses or verbs.

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/42
Writing

Key messages

- Candidates should read the initial rubric of each question and each task carefully to ensure that the response that they produce is relevant and includes appropriate tenses.
- In order to ensure that they respond to all the tasks in Questions 2 and 3, candidates may benefit from attempting the tasks in the order in which they appear on the question paper.
- Candidates should recognise the need to use an appropriate range of structures, tenses and vocabulary in their response to Question 3 in order to give themselves access to the full range of marks available. Similarly, they need to develop their responses by including additional information (e.g. explanations, reasons, opinions, etc.).
- Candidates should pay careful attention to the formation of vowels and the placement of accents as these features can affect the marks for the three criteria in Question 3.
- It is recommended that candidates adhere to the word counts for Questions 2 and 3.

General comments

Work from the whole ability range was seen. Many candidates performed very well in Questions 1 and 2. In Question 3 stronger candidates showed control of varied sentence structures and verb tenses, and complex linguistic structures were seen, including idiomatic expressions.

In Question 1 candidates should always try to produce an answer for each of the five gaps. They need to read the initial rubric carefully, as well as the tasks themselves, so that they can provide appropriate responses. Candidates should avoid writing answers outside the dotted lines provided. Extra answers for one task cannot compensate for other tasks that have not been attempted or that are incorrect.

In Question 2 up to 12 marks are awarded based on task completion, relevance, clarity of the message, variety of vocabulary and structures, and the use of linking words. There is no requirement to provide the same amount of information for each of the tasks. Candidates should be reminded that the maximum of 12 marks cannot be awarded if they omit or do not successfully convey at least one detail for each of the tasks, including tasks that have more than one element. Candidates are required to write responses in full sentences and to form their response as a piece of prose, rather than as a series of bullet points. Candidates need to produce a recognisable part of an appropriate verb in order to gain credit for task completion. It is acceptable for two tasks to be completed in a single sentence. Candidates need to link their words, phrases and sentences using a range of simple connectors (e.g. y, también, pero, etc.).

Question 3 offers a choice of two options: a letter/email and a report/article. There are 10 marks available for Task completion, 10 marks for Range and 8 marks for Accuracy. The marks for Range are awarded based on the candidates' ability to extend and link sentences, and the range of tenses and other structures used, as well as the range of vocabulary. Candidates should ensure that they select the question which will allow them to best show the Spanish that they know. Candidates should read through both options before choosing which one to answer. A close reading of the tasks within the questions is recommended as this will allow candidates to think about the vocabulary and structures that they will need to use in order to respond effectively and fully.

Task completion: For a task to be considered complete, candidates must respond using the tense required by the task, with the production of a wholly accurate verb. Minor spelling errors might be tolerated, e.g. when a missing accent does not produce another tense which causes ambiguity.

Range: The use of extended sentences, a range of connectives, tenses, varied structures including idioms and vocabulary is required in order to reach the top mark band. When the descriptor states 'uses', it should be read as 'uses successfully'. Candidates who struggle to use basic tenses are likely to achieve a maximum of five marks for Range. Only those who attempt some complex structures are able to access a mark of six or higher for Range.

Accuracy: Candidates do not have to produce a perfectly accurate piece of writing in order to achieve the full 8 marks available for Accuracy. Minor errors which do not impede communication are tolerated.

When finalising their responses for Questions 2 and 3, candidates need to be careful if they decide to cross out any parts of their response. There were some instances where crossing-out had occurred, and this affected the coherence and clarity of the piece of writing overall.

Comments on specific questions

Question 1: Estás de vacaciones en una ciudad. La oficina de turismo quiere saber tu opinión sobre la ciudad.

The majority of candidates achieved the full five marks available for this question. A single word was sufficient to gain the mark for each of the five tasks. Many candidates produced accurate spellings in each of their responses. Minor spelling errors were tolerated as long as the word would be recognised and understood by a native speaker of Spanish. In many cases, minor spelling errors did not prevent the award of marks (e.g. the answers apartamento and apartmento were accepted in response to task 2). Words or phrases that were unrecognisable as Spanish (e.g. parkes) could not be credited. Some candidates did not gain the mark for task 1 because they did not understand the word país; there were also answers here that could not be credited, such as adjectives for nationalities (francés, inglés, etc.) or names of cities instead of countries (e.g. Londres). Some candidates struggled with task 2 as they did not understand the word alojamiento; this resulted in some entirely inappropriate answers such as rápido or vi fútbol.

Question 2: Las estaciones del año

Most candidates were able to use familiar language and structures when responding to Question 2, and many gained full marks here. Candidates who worked methodically through the tasks in order were less likely to omit one of them. There were many interesting and competent responses which included a variety of less common vocabulary and detailed information, sometimes expressed in more complex language. Weaker candidates struggled to respect gender agreements when using articles, nouns and adjectives. In the best responses, candidates produced accurate verbs throughout their response. Weaker candidates relied upon infinitives or offered inappropriate tenses and spelling of verbs. There was a wide variation in control of verb formations. Where a spelling error in a verb created a word that did not exist in the verb's paradigm, this was taken into account when establishing the final mark for the piece of writing. The absence of accents on verbs was widespread but did not usually prevent candidates from achieving a high mark. Whilst most tasks could be answered using the present tense, other tenses were used appropriately by some candidates. The inappropriate use of several tenses within a response to a single task was often seen. Stronger candidates used a range of basic connectors (y, o, pero, también), whereas weaker candidates tended to rely on y and porque.

Tasks 1 and 2 were answered well by most candidates, who were able to state what their favourite season of the year was by using a noun (e.g. verano or invierno) or by using cuando hace + weather phrase (e.g. cuando hace frío/sol), and then went on to give a clear reason for their preference (e.g. porque puedes nadar en la playa). In response to task 1, it was common to see misspellings of the verb preferir (e.g. prefero, prefirio). In some cases, the misspellings were still accurate enough for the tasks to be considered complete. In addition, candidates need to remember that the verb preferir is not a reflexive verb.

Task 3 required candidates to say what activities they do when it rains. In general there was a good response to this task, with plenty of activities conveyed (e.g. cuando llueve veo la tele). There were frequent errors with the verb gustar here, as well as with pronouns (mi or mí was often used where me would have been appropriate), and the plural ending was often seen in place of the singular and vice versa. It was common to see gustar followed by a conjugated verb rather than an infinitive (e.g. me gusta leo) or gustar conjugated as a regular verb (e.g. no gustamos cuando hace llueve).

Task 4 required candidates to describe the clothes that they wear when it is cold. Most candidates responded successfully, correctly naming various items of clothing. There was some confusion between the verb llover (which had appeared in task 3) and llevar (e.g. cuando hace frío lluevo pantalones, cuando lleve). Some candidates were unable to perform a successful manipulation of the verb in the task, and instead used the tú form of the verb (e.g. cuando hace frío llevas un jaqueta).

Task 5 was addressed successfully by most candidates, who were generally able to respond using a future timeframe for this task. A clear reference to the future was needed, either by using a verb referring to the future (e.g. voy a pasar, espero ir a, quiero viajar a) or by using the present tense along with a future time phrase (e.g. el próximo diciembre paso, vamos a Japón). A few candidates used a future timeframe with an inappropriate past tense verb (e.g. el próximo diciembre fui a Madrid) and in these cases the task could not be considered complete.

Question 3: General comments

Most candidates chose Question 3(a), and many produced interesting responses. The strongest responses were well-structured and showed signs of thoughtful planning. Some candidates gained fewer marks than they could have done because they omitted to cover one or more of the tasks. Candidates generally respected the guidelines about length, producing between 130 and 140 words.

Task completion

In order to obtain high marks for Task completion, candidates need to ensure that they:

- address all of the tasks given in the question
- provide sufficient information relating to each task by expressing a range of details/opinions/reactions/explanations – one good strategy that candidates can use is to provide at least two full sentences in response to each task
- address the specific tasks set
- use verbs accurately
- use an appropriate tense and person of the verb when responding to each task
- copy accurately when using words provided in the question.

Range

Many candidates expressed their ideas using extended, well-linked sentences which demonstrated strong cohesion as well as correct and varied use of vocabulary, verbs and other structures.

The strongest responses included use of subordinate clauses throughout the pieces of writing, introduced by a variety of conjunctions and relative pronouns, appropriate and accurate use of a range of timeframes, and accurately formed verbs in the first, third and, sometimes, second person (including accents, where required). Such responses also tended to include a wide range of interesting vocabulary which was relevant to the question chosen, idiomatic expressions and appropriate use of the subjunctive.

It is important that all candidates show control of basic structures, including correct spelling and gender. Access to the higher mark bands is more likely to be achieved through accurate and appropriate use of:

- subordinate clauses introduced by conjunctions, relative pronouns, etc., produced throughout the response (e.g. cuando/donde/mientras (que)/visto que/puesto que/dado que/ya que/que/quien/si)
- appropriate formation of constructions with verbs requiring a preposition (e.g. hablar con, con quien hablé)
- a range of timeframes and first-person and third-person verb forms
- adjectives, possessive adjectives, demonstrative adjectives, comparative/superlative adjectives
- adjectival agreement between the subject and its adjective(s)
- correct use and placement of object pronouns in relation to conjugated verbs and infinitives
- negatives, including appropriate word order (e.g. nada/nunca)
- correct use of por and para
- adverbs, prepositional phrases, time references, opinion markers
- linking words other than y, pero and porque
- definite and indefinite articles.

Candidates who did not attempt structures from the list above or who did not use subordinate clauses could not usually achieve a mark higher than five for Range. A response which is entirely, or almost entirely, in short sentences, without any subordinate clauses, is highly likely to be limited to three or four marks for Range. To achieve a mark beyond the 5–6 band, candidates need to ensure that they include a range of tenses, several subordinate clauses, a range of more ambitious connectives (e.g. aunque, además, etc.), opinion markers (e.g. pienso que, opino que, etc.) and vocabulary, as well as some of the structures listed above. In addition, basic structures must, in general, be used successfully.

Some candidates struggled when using both basic and more complex tenses. In order to improve, they need to ensure that they:

- include accents on verbs (where necessary) in the preterite, imperfect, future and conditional tenses
- include the personal a with verbs that require it
- form regular and common irregular verbs in the preterite, particularly the first-person singular (e.g. compré/comí/bebí/vi/elegí/hice/tuve/dije/practiqué/jugué)
- use appropriate prepositions in verb constructions when required (e.g. tengo que, ayudo a, tratar de)
- avoid using tiene where hay is required and vice versa, and es/son where hay is required and vice versa.

Accuracy

A high level of accuracy is expected for the award of marks in the top band. However, the response does not necessarily have to be faultless in order for such a mark to be given. Responses that contain minor errors (especially in more complex language) which do not affect communication can be considered for the award of marks in the top band.

Frequent inaccuracies will limit the overall mark awarded for Accuracy. Responses which show errors in basic tenses, in adjective-noun agreements and in other basic structures/words are likely to be placed in the 3–4 band, depending on how often these errors hinder communication. Similarly, candidates who produce a very short text using only basic language cannot usually achieve a mark beyond the 3–4 band since they will only have demonstrated some accurate spelling and grammar. Candidates who persistently struggle with accuracy in very basic language and whose errors persistently impede communication are likely to be placed in the 1–2 band.

Common errors

The following common errors were seen:

- omission of the relative pronoun que
- inaccurate spelling of simple adjectives and lack of agreement between the subject and the adjective
- inappropriate use of estar when ser was required and vice versa
- incorrect combinations of ser/estar with bueno/bien and malo/mal
- use of third-person singular of ser with a plural subject and third-person plural of ser with a singular subject
- incorrect formation of gustar/encantar in the present and conditional tenses, including the omission of the preceding a (e.g. a mí, me gusta)
- incorrect spelling of preferir in the present tense
- incorrect formation of hacer/decir/tener/poner/poder/querer in the preterite
- use of fue/fuiste when fui was intended
- use of second-person formation when the first-person was intended
- use of third-person formation when the first-person was intended
- omission of the appropriate preposition in verb constructions (e.g. ayudar a, ir a, tratar de)
- inappropriate inclusion of a preposition in verb constructions (e.g. es importante de, necesito de)
- omission of the preposition following verbs (e.g. fui a la casa de mi amigo, he soñado con)
- inappropriate translation of idioms from the candidate's first language (e.g. 'to have a good time' was translated literally as tener un buen tiempo when the Spanish idiom pasarlo bien was intended).

Question 3(a): El colegio

This was the more popular question, with approximately 70% of candidates choosing this option. Most candidates attempted or successfully addressed most of the tasks. There were good attempts at explanations and developments, and a significant number of candidates engaged well with the register of the task (i.e. an email to a friend), including appropriate salutations and endings.

Task completion

Task 1 required candidates to say how they prepared themselves each morning to go to school. Almost all candidates provided an acceptable response in terms of content, describing their morning routine. However, if the response included an inappropriate verb form (e.g. use of the third person prepara instead of the first person preparo), an inappropriate verb (tienes desayuno) or an omission of the preposition (tengo cocinar mi comida), then the task could not be considered complete.

Task 2 required candidates to describe a good aspect or a bad aspect of their school. This was a straightforward task and most candidates were able to provide a very simple statement to address the task, with stronger candidates extending their response by explaining why and giving further details.

Task 3 required candidates to explain why it is or isn't important to have good facilities at school. Stronger candidates were able to produce a clear explanation of the benefits to students of having good facilities at school. Misunderstanding the meaning of the word instalaciones was the most common reason for weaker candidates providing an unsuccessful response here.

Task 4 required candidates to describe a problem that they had had yesterday at school. This was generally answered successfully by most candidates, with responses usually describing a problem with a teacher, homework or a lesson. Some candidates omitted to provide a response to this task. A number of responses contained inappropriate verb forms, particularly the second-person verb form tuviste which had been lifted unaltered from the question, or an incorrect manipulation of the preterite of tener (e.g. tuvo). In such cases the task could not be considered complete.

Task 5 required candidates to explain why they would or would not like to go to university. Most candidates were confident using a future timeframe with me gustaría + infinitive, but the second-person verb form (te gustaría) was sometimes copied unaltered from the question, meaning that the task could not be considered complete. Many candidates did not go beyond the present tense in their explanations. Stronger candidates gave detailed responses using a variety of verbs and tenses (e.g. espero ir, iré, si pudiera... iría...).

Range

Some candidates demonstrated a strong grasp of the language, combining fluency, breadth and variety. These candidates used a broad range of tenses, which were mostly accurate, combined with other complex grammar and vocabulary. Only those candidates who could produce longer, complex sentences linked with a range of connectors could score a mark in the top band. For some candidates, it often proved difficult to gain a mark higher than five or six due to a lack of more complex tenses, grammar and vocabulary. The most common reasons for low marks being awarded in this category were inaccuracy of tenses (especially the preterite), an insufficient range of tenses and other complex structures, and ideas presented as a list of simple sentences with no attempt at linkage.

Accuracy

The stronger candidates, who often scored marks in the top mark band, tended to produce pieces of writing that contained only very minor errors that did not impede communication. The most common errors which hindered communication were errors in the subject, tenses or verbs.

Question 3(b): Los teléfonos móviles

This was the less popular option. However, it was generally tackled well, appealing to those candidates with good knowledge of the topic-specific vocabulary. Most candidates addressed all of the tasks, with some good attempts at explanations and development of ideas. Some candidates produced a standard piece of writing in response to the bullet points, whereas others engaged well with the register of the task (i.e. an article for the school magazine).

Task completion

Task 1 asked candidates to say what they used their favourite app for. Responses from weaker candidates tended to be brief, sometimes only naming the app with no mention of its use or what could be done with it. Stronger candidates mentioned several uses, using a range of topic-specific vocabulary.

Task 2 asked candidates to describe the last time that they made a phone call. Stronger candidates mentioned several things, using a range of verbs in the preterite and giving detailed explanations. Weaker candidates struggled to use an accurate verb in the preterite, or used the present tense instead. The task could therefore not be considered complete. A significant number of responses contained the second-person verb form hiciste, which had been lifted directly from the question, and in such cases task 2 could not be considered complete.

Task 3 required candidates to explain either the advantages or disadvantages of having a mobile phone. This task clearly appealed to candidates, and most were able to give detailed responses with accurate language and, in the case of stronger candidates, some complex language.

Task 4 was attempted by most candidates, but not always successfully. Weaker candidates misunderstood the phrase te sentirías and produced inappropriate responses. Stronger candidates were able to produce constructions using si (e.g. si utilizamos el móvil mucho tendrá un impacto negativo en nuestra vida and si tuviera que pasar un día sin móvil me sentiría triste). Some candidates did not use the verb sentir in the reflexive form.

Task 5 required candidates to say when they thought that they would next buy a mobile phone. Some candidates answered with a short, simple sentence in which an accurate form of the future was produced. Other candidates who adopted the same approach did not address the task successfully because they used the second-person verb form comprarás unaltered from the question. Stronger candidates prefaced their response with statements like no sé cuándo voy a comprar un móvil nuevo or no pienso comprar un móvil nuevo porque... Weaker candidates did not address the interrogative ¿cuándo?, instead explaining why it was good to have a new phone.

Range

Some candidates were able to include a wide range of connectives and appropriate linking words. Most candidates tended to use simple structures with few attempts at using more complex structures. Stronger candidates included a very wide range of complex structures in their responses, such as si, cuando, ya que, aunque, debido a and lo que, and also included, sometimes, a wide range of connectives within one sentence. Some candidates were able to include accurate examples of the most complex structures, including subjunctive structures, indirect pronouns and conditional clauses. These candidates also often used a wide range of vocabulary specific to the topic. The most common reasons for low marks being awarded in this category were inaccuracy of tenses (especially the preterite), an insufficient range of tenses and other complex structures, and ideas presented as a list of simple sentences with no attempt at linkage.

Accuracy

Most candidates tended to use simple structures accurately. The most common errors which hindered communication were errors in the subject, tenses or verbs.

SPANISH (Foreign Language)

Paper 0530/43
Writing

Key messages

- Candidates should read the initial rubric of each question and each task carefully to ensure that the response that they produce is relevant and includes appropriate tenses.
- In order to ensure that they respond to all the tasks in Questions 2 and 3, candidates may benefit from attempting the tasks in the order in which they appear on the question paper.
- Candidates should recognise the need to use an appropriate range of structures, tenses and vocabulary in their response to Question 3 in order to give themselves access to the full range of marks available. Similarly, they need to develop their responses by including additional information (e.g. explanations, reasons, opinions, etc.).
- Candidates should pay careful attention to the formation of vowels and the placement of accents as these features can affect the marks for the three criteria in Question 3.
- It is recommended that candidates adhere to the word counts for Questions 2 and 3.

General comments

Work from the whole ability range was seen. Many candidates performed very well in Questions 1 and 2. In Question 3 stronger candidates showed control of varied sentence structures and verb tenses, and complex linguistic structures were seen, including idiomatic expressions.

In Question 1 candidates should always try to produce an answer for each of the five gaps. They need to read the initial rubric carefully, as well as the tasks themselves, so that they can provide appropriate responses. Candidates should avoid writing answers outside the dotted lines provided. Extra answers for one task cannot compensate for other tasks that have not been attempted or that are incorrect.

In Question 2 up to 12 marks are awarded based on task completion, relevance, clarity of the message, variety of vocabulary and structures, and the use of linking words. There is no requirement to provide the same amount of information for each of the tasks. Candidates should be reminded that the maximum of 12 marks cannot be awarded if they omit or do not successfully convey at least one detail for each of the tasks, including tasks that have more than one element. Candidates are required to write responses in full sentences and to form their response as a piece of prose, rather than as a series of bullet points. Candidates need to produce a recognisable part of an appropriate verb in order to gain credit for task completion. It is acceptable for two tasks to be completed in a single sentence. Candidates need to link their words, phrases and sentences using a range of simple connectors (e.g. y, también, pero, etc.).

Question 3 offers a choice of two options: a letter/email and a report/article. There are 10 marks available for Task completion, 10 marks for Range and 8 marks for Accuracy. The marks for Range are awarded based on the candidates' ability to extend and link sentences, and the range of tenses and other structures used, as well as the range of vocabulary. Candidates should ensure that they select the question which will allow them to best show the Spanish that they know. Candidates should read through both options before choosing which one to answer. A close reading of the tasks within the questions is recommended as this will allow candidates to think about the vocabulary and structures that they will need to use in order to respond effectively and fully.

Task completion: For a task to be considered complete, candidates must respond using the tense required by the task, with the production of a wholly accurate verb. Minor spelling errors might be tolerated, e.g. when a missing accent does not produce another tense which causes ambiguity.

Range: The use of extended sentences, a range of connectives, tenses, varied structures including idioms and vocabulary is required in order to reach the top mark band. When the descriptor states 'uses', it should be read as 'uses successfully'. Candidates who struggle to use basic tenses are likely to achieve a maximum of five marks for Range. Only those who attempt some complex structures are able to access a mark of six or higher for Range.

Accuracy: Candidates do not have to produce a perfectly accurate piece of writing in order to achieve the full 8 marks available for Accuracy. Minor errors which do not impede communication are tolerated.

When finalising their responses for Questions 2 and 3, candidates need to be careful if they decide to cross out any parts of their response. There were some instances where crossing-out had occurred, and this affected the coherence and clarity of the piece of writing overall.

Comments on specific questions

Question 1: Vas a participar en un concierto en Ecuador con tu colegio.

The majority of candidates achieved four out of the five marks available for this question. A single word was sufficient to gain the mark for each of the five tasks. Many candidates produced accurate spellings in each of their responses. The majority of candidates chose guitarra as their response to task 2 and were also able to provide appropriate breakfast items for tasks 4 and 5. Minor spelling errors were tolerated as long as the word would be recognised and understood by a native speaker of Spanish. In many cases, minor spelling errors did not prevent the award of marks (e.g. the answers trampeta and fluto were accepted in response to task 2). However, spelling errors which produced a word with a different meaning could not be rewarded. Words or phrases that were unrecognisable as Spanish (e.g. saxophono) could not be credited. Some candidates did not gain the mark for task 1 because they backdated the day of arrival (e.g. 02/03/2005); this did not make sense in the context of the form.

Question 2: Las tareas de la casa

Most candidates were able to use familiar language and structures when responding to Question 2, and many gained full marks here. Weaker candidates did not understand the rubric and wrote irrelevant responses describing the number of people in their family, what their house was like and the activities that they did at home. Candidates who worked methodically through the tasks in order were less likely to omit one of them. There were many interesting and competent responses which included a variety of less common vocabulary and detailed information, sometimes expressed in more complex language. Weaker candidates struggled to respect gender agreements when using articles, nouns and adjectives. In the best responses, candidates produced accurate verbs throughout their response. Weaker candidates relied upon infinitives or offered inappropriate tenses and spelling of verbs. There was a wide variation in control of verb formations. Where a spelling error in a verb created a word that did not exist in the verb's paradigm, this was taken into account when establishing the final mark for the piece of writing. The absence of accents on verbs was widespread but did not usually prevent candidates from achieving a high mark. Whilst most tasks could be answered using the present tense, other tenses were used appropriately by some candidates. The inappropriate use of several tenses within a response to a single task was often seen. Stronger candidates used a range of basic connectors (y, o, pero, también), whereas weaker candidates tended to rely on y and porque.

Task 1 was answered well by most candidates, who were able to write in the present tense and use appropriate vocabulary to describe the chores that they helped with at home.

Task 2 required candidates to say who else helped with the chores. Some candidates misunderstood the question and talked about who they had helped (e.g. también ayudo a mi abuela or ayudo a mi madre) instead of saying who else helped.

Task 3 required candidates to say how much money they receive from their parents each month. There was generally a good response to this task, with some minor spelling errors permitted (e.g. yo no resibo dinero de mis padres). However, there was some confusion with the subject of the verb recibir which caused many responses to be ambiguous in meaning (e.g. mis padres recibo dinero cada mes). A few candidates did not mention currency of any sort and used the word dinero instead (e.g. recibo 40 dineros), which was not accepted.

Task 4 required candidates to explain why they were or were not happy with the money that they received. There was a wide variety of engaging responses here, with most candidates completing the task successfully. Stronger candidates manipulated the verb correctly (e.g. estoy contento porque no quiero mucho cosas), whilst weaker candidates only partially completed the task due to verb error (e.g. me contento con el dinero que recibes).

Task 5 was addressed successfully by most candidates, who were generally able to respond using a future timeframe for this task. A clear reference to the future and the verb comprar was needed, either by using a verb referring to the future (e.g. el próximo fin de semana me gustaría comprar..., voy a comprar..., quiero comprar...) or by using the present tense with a future time phrase (e.g. este fin de semana compro...). Responses without the verb comprar (e.g. el próximo fin de semana quiero una camiseta) were considered to be an attempt at the task with partial completion. A few candidates used the present tense with a reference to weekends in general (e.g. el fin de semana/los fines de semana compro...) or a future timeframe with an inappropriate past tense verb (e.g. el próximo fin de semana compré...) and in these cases the task could not be considered complete.

Question 3: General comments

There was an almost-even balance between the number of candidates who chose Question 3(a) and those who chose Question 3(b), and many produced interesting responses. The strongest responses were well-structured and showed signs of thoughtful planning. Some candidates gained fewer marks than they could have done because they omitted to cover one or more of the tasks. Candidates generally respected the guidelines about length, producing between 130 and 140 words.

Task completion

In order to obtain high marks for Task completion, candidates need to ensure that they:

- address all of the tasks given in the question
- provide sufficient information relating to each task by expressing a range of details/opinions/reactions/explanations – one good strategy that candidates can use is to provide at least two full sentences in response to each task
- address the specific tasks set
- use verbs accurately
- use an appropriate tense and person of the verb when responding to each task
- copy accurately when using words provided in the question.

Range

Many candidates expressed their ideas using extended, well-linked sentences which demonstrated strong cohesion as well as correct and varied use of vocabulary, verbs and other structures.

The strongest responses included use of subordinate clauses throughout the pieces of writing, introduced by a variety of conjunctions and relative pronouns, appropriate and accurate use of a range of timeframes, and accurately formed verbs in the first, third and, sometimes, second person (including accents, where required). Such responses also tended to include a wide range of interesting vocabulary which was relevant to the question chosen, idiomatic expressions and appropriate use of the subjunctive.

It is important that all candidates show control of basic structures, including correct spelling and gender. Access to the higher mark bands is more likely to be achieved through accurate and appropriate use of:

- subordinate clauses introduced by conjunctions, relative pronouns, etc., produced throughout the response (e.g. cuando/donde/mientras (que)/visto que/puesto que/dado que/ya que/que/quien/si)
- appropriate formation of constructions with verbs requiring a preposition (e.g. hablar con, con quien hablé)
- a range of timeframes and first-person and third-person verb forms
- adjectives, possessive adjectives, demonstrative adjectives, comparative/superlative adjectives
- adjectival agreement between the subject and its adjective(s)
- correct use and placement of object pronouns in relation to conjugated verbs and infinitives
- negatives, including appropriate word order (e.g. nada/nunca)
- correct use of por and para
- adverbs, prepositional phrases, time references, opinion markers
- linking words other than y, pero and porque
- definite and indefinite articles.

Candidates who did not attempt structures from the list above or who did not use subordinate clauses could not usually achieve a mark higher than five for Range. A response which is entirely, or almost entirely, in short sentences, without any subordinate clauses, is highly likely to be limited to three or four marks for Range. To achieve a mark beyond the 5–6 band, candidates need to ensure that they include a range of tenses, several subordinate clauses, a range of more ambitious connectives (e.g. aunque, además, etc.), opinion markers (e.g. pienso que, opino que, etc.) and vocabulary, as well as some of the structures listed above. In addition, basic structures must, in general, be used successfully.

Some candidates struggled when using both basic and more complex tenses. In order to improve, they need to ensure that they:

- include accents on verbs (where necessary) in the preterite, imperfect, future and conditional tenses
- include the personal a with verbs that require it
- form regular and common irregular verbs in the preterite, particularly the first-person singular (e.g. compré/comí/bebí/vi/elegí/hice/tuve/dije/practiqué/jugué)
- use appropriate prepositions in verb constructions when required (e.g. tengo que, ayudo a, tratar de)
- avoid using tiene where hay is required and vice versa, and es/son where hay is required and vice versa.

Accuracy

A high level of accuracy is expected for the award of marks in the top band. However, the response does not necessarily have to be faultless in order for such a mark to be given. Responses that contain minor errors (especially in more complex language) which do not affect communication can be considered for the award of marks in the top band.

Frequent inaccuracies will limit the overall mark awarded for Accuracy. Responses which show errors in basic tenses, in adjective-noun agreements and in other basic structures/words are likely to be placed in the 3–4 band, depending on how often these errors hinder communication. Similarly, candidates who produce a very short text using only basic language cannot usually achieve a mark beyond the 3–4 band since they will only have demonstrated some accurate spelling and grammar. Candidates who persistently struggle with accuracy in very basic language and whose errors persistently impede communication are likely to be placed in the 1–2 band.

Common errors

The following common errors were seen:

- omission of the relative pronoun que
- inaccurate spelling of simple adjectives and lack of agreement between the subject and the adjective
- inappropriate use of estar when ser was required and vice versa
- incorrect combinations of ser/estar with bueno/bien and malo/mal
- use of third-person singular of ser with a plural subject and third-person plural of ser with a singular subject
- incorrect formation of gustar/encantar in the present and conditional tenses, including the omission of the preceding a (e.g. a mí, me gusta)
- incorrect spelling of preferir in the present tense
- incorrect formation of hacer/decir/tener/poner/poder/querer in the preterite
- use of fue/fuiste when fui was intended
- use of second-person formation when the first-person was intended
- use of third-person formation when the first-person was intended
- omission of the appropriate preposition in verb constructions (e.g. ayudar a, ir a, tratar de)
- inappropriate inclusion of a preposition in verb constructions (e.g. es importante de, necesito de)
- omission of the preposition following verbs (e.g. fui a la casa de mi amigo, he soñado con)
- inappropriate translation of idioms from the candidate's first language (e.g. 'to have a good time' was translated literally as tener un buen tiempo when the Spanish idiom pasarlo bien was intended).

Question 3(a): Los libros

Many candidates attempted this question, and it was only slightly more popular than Question 3(b). Most candidates attempted or successfully addressed most of the tasks. There were good attempts at explanations and developments, and a significant number of candidates engaged well with the register of the task (i.e. an email to a friend), including appropriate salutations and endings. Weaker candidates were not able to use the rubric to help them with their responses; misspellings of biblioteca were common, as was the use of me gustaria (without the accent on the i).

Task completion

Task 1 required candidates to say what they usually read in their free time. Almost all candidates provided an acceptable response in terms of content, but stronger candidates went on to describe a range of reading materials, whereas weaker candidates only mentioned one thing what they liked reading. However, if the response included an inappropriate verb form (e.g. the second-person sueles instead of the first-person suelo), then the task could not be considered complete.

Task 2 required candidates to explain why, in their opinion, reading is or isn't important. This was a straightforward task, and most candidates were able to provide a simple opinion to address the task, with stronger candidates extending their responses by giving further details including complex language and connectives. Weaker candidates had problems with producing suitable verb forms (e.g. pienso que leyendo es importante porque siempre necesitas leer or primero leer ayudes estudiar ingles), which meant that the task was only partially completed.

Task 3 required candidates to describe the last time that they went to a library. Stronger candidates used a range of verbs correctly in the preterite and included verbs in the imperfect for description of the library (e.g. cuando entramos en la biblioteca había mucha gente). Weaker candidates were not able to use the preterite consistently and others did not describe the visit to the library at all. A number of responses contained inappropriate verb forms, particularly the second-person verb form fuiste which had been lifted unaltered from the question. In such cases the task could not be considered complete.

Task 4 required candidates to say what qualities a good book should have. Stronger candidates were successful here, manipulating the verb necesitar correctly and providing thoughtful opinions. However, weaker candidates encountered difficulty here. In some cases they did not understand the task fully, and in other cases they either lacked vocabulary appropriate to the task or could not apply the grammar correctly in order to complete the task (e.g. el libro necesita es barato or es necesita tiene muchas informaciones).

Task 5 required candidates to explain why they would or would not like to write a book in future. Most candidates were confident using a future timeframe with me gustaría + infinitive, but the second-person verb form te gustaría was sometimes copied unaltered from the question, meaning that the task could not be considered complete. Many candidates did not go beyond the present tense in their explanations (e.g. no me gustaría escribir un libro porque mi inglés es mal).

Range

Some candidates demonstrated a sound understanding of the language, producing fluent and coherent pieces of writing. These candidates used a broad range of tenses, which were mostly accurate, combined with other complex grammar and vocabulary. Only those candidates who could produce longer, complex sentences linked with a range of connectors could score a mark in the top band. For some candidates, it often proved difficult to gain a mark higher than five or six due to a lack of more complex tenses and a more limited range of grammar and vocabulary. The other most common reasons for low marks being awarded in this category were inaccuracy of tenses (especially the preterite), an insufficient range of tenses and other complex structures, and ideas presented as a list of simple sentences with no attempt at linkage.

Accuracy

The stronger candidates, who often scored marks in the top mark band, tended to produce pieces of writing that contained only very minor errors that did not impede communication. The most common errors which hindered communication were errors in the subject, tenses or verbs.

Question 3(b): Turismo en la ciudad

This was also a popular option. However, it was generally tackled less well than Question 3(a), with some candidates concentrating on an account of their visit rather than the specific tasks which asked about tourism in cities. Most candidates addressed all of the tasks and there were some good attempts at explanations and development of ideas. Some candidates produced a standard piece of writing in response to the bullet points, whereas others engaged well with the register of the task (i.e. an article for the school magazine).

Task completion

Task 1 asked candidates to describe the last city that they had visited. Most candidates described the city in the present tense, which was acceptable, but prevented them from showcasing a range of past tense verbs. Stronger candidates described the city and the different activities that they had done there, using a range of tenses and topic-specific vocabulary.

Task 2 asked candidates to say what is important to take with you when visiting a city. Most candidates were able to name at least one important item and stronger candidates went on to develop their responses with explanations and reasons.

Task 3 required candidates to describe the advantages of tourism in cities. Weaker candidates misunderstood the task, stating things like turismo en Nueva York es grande porque el ciudad es grande. Some candidates highlighted the benefits of tourism to the city itself, whereas others talked about the advantage of being a tourist in a city (e.g. muchas personas pueden aprender sobre la ciudad).

Task 4 required candidates to say what negative impact tourism has on cities. This task was attempted by most candidates, but not always successfully. Stronger candidates were able to draw on topic-specific vocabulary about the environment to respond to this task (e.g. hay contaminación en los ríos y los parques). This task offered an opportunity to use the present subjunctive, but there were very few examples of this. Weaker candidates made numerous errors with vocabulary and structure (e.g. el impacto negative es pollutiones porque es muy vehicles y litero – the word litero was an attempt at transforming the English word litter (basura) into Spanish).

Task 5 required candidates to say which city they were planning to visit in future. Some candidates answered with a short, simple sentence in which they produced an accurate form of the future tense. Other candidates who adopted the same approach did not address the task successfully because they lifted the second-person verb form (planeas) unaltered from the question. Stronger candidates were able to develop their response with additional explanations and reasons. Weaker candidates often fulfilled the task, but made errors in their attempt to extend their response (e.g. me gustaría visitar una ciudad en Japón porque encanto esquiar y una bebe tipico, la sopa de miso).

Range

Some candidates were able to include a wide range of connectives and appropriate linking words. Most candidates tended to use simple structures with few attempts to use more complex structures. Stronger candidates included a wide range of complex structures in their responses, including, sometimes, a wide range of connectives within one sentence. Some candidates were able to include accurate examples of more complex structures, including subjunctive structures, indirect pronouns and adverbs. These candidates also often used a wide range of vocabulary specific to the topic (e.g. me muero de ganas, ojalá sea, ha sido mi sueño desde hace..., me da la sensación, lo pasé bomba). The most common reasons for low marks being awarded in this category were inaccuracy of tenses (especially the preterite), an insufficient range of tenses and other complex structures, and ideas presented as a list of simple sentences with no attempt at linkage.

Accuracy

Most candidates tended to use simple structures accurately. The most common errors which hindered communication were errors in the subject, tenses or verbs.