Question 4

Refer to Fig. 4, a news item about low cost flights in Uganda.

Www.PapaCambridge.com East Africa's first low-cost carrier scheduled to take flight

The region's first true low-cost airline, Fly540, will be starting operations from Uganda by the end of next month, after obtaining its Air Operator Certificate from the Uganda Civil Aviation Authority (CAA).

The news created excitement among travel agents and travellers, as a range of additional destinations may be offered for them from Entebbe, besides the twice-daily service already in place between Entebbe and Nairobi.

The airline is expected to register at least two ATR42 planes in Uganda and is presently putting final touches on its operations set up at the airport. The Fly540 sales and reservations office is strategically located opposite the main entrance of "Garden City", in Kampala. This is a prestigious shopping, entertainment and hospitality centre, which eases access for potential travellers. The airline also offers a state of the art booking engine via their website (www.fly540.com) to allow for direct internet bookings.

Since commencing Entebbe operations earlier in the year, the airline has already transported over 7 000 passengers on the route. There have been significant load increases recently, mainly at the expense of Air Uganda.

Fly540 is here to stay, and likely to expand, bringing new choices and destinations to Uganda. New operations, after Kenya and Uganda, are likely to take off in Tanzania and Angola before moving to other parts of Western Africa. Final confirmation is also expected soon about a partnership agreement with Rwandair, which would further boost Fly540's standing in the region.
